

ing the friend, named Mr. Willis, and he was elected.

After two terms in the legislature Senator Willis was elected to the national house of representatives in the 63d and 64th congresses. He resigned his seat on Jan. 1, 1915, to become governor of Ohio, after defeating Gov. Cox, in the first of three campaigns, the other two of which were won by Cox.

After two successive defeats for governor in 1916 and 1918, the Willis' political star seemed to have been dimmed, but a new opportunity arose in 1920.

In that year Willis was one of the leading supporters of Warren G. Harding for the Republican nomination for President, and made the speech placing Mr. Harding in nomination at the national convention at Chicago.

Gets Harding's Seat.

While the convention was deadlocked the time for filing in the Ohio senatorial primaries expired. Harding's seat was at stake, but on the advice of his closest friends he decided to remain out of the Ohio senatorial fight.

A number of Republicans had been waiting for such a decision, unwilling to seek the nomination if Mr. Harding wanted it. Willis filed at the last moment and in the following November was swept into office along with other Republicans.

After his election as President, Harding resigned from the senate and Willis was named to fill his unexpired term, thus taking office before his election term began.

In November, 1920, Willis was re-elected to the senate, defeating Senator Allen Pomeroy, a Democrat, and one of the government's special oil counsel.

Senator Willis was a member of the senate foreign relations committee and opposed the entrance to the United States into the league of nations. He advocated the adherence of the United States to the world court.

He was an uncompromising dry, and much of his political strength in Ohio was due to the mutual support which he and the Anti-Saloon league gave each other.

COLLEAGUES SHOCKED.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—Washington leaders were shocked by the news of Senator Willis' death tonight.

Representative Burton (Rep., O.), who took the lead in urging Secretary Hoover to enter the Ohio primary fight, said he felt a personal loss.

"We have been conducting a rather intense political contest that did not interfere with our personal relations, which have always been very friendly," Speaker Longworth said.

Senator Willis and I were friends of long standing. I can hardly believe this news."

Vice President Dawes, a close friend and a native Ohioan, declared: "Senator Willis dies in the prime of life and in the fullness of his powers. His death is a loss to his country and will be mourned as personal by thousands of friends."

Senator Watson of Indiana, said: "I am shocked beyond words. Senator Willis was a very fine and lovable character."

Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, said: "He was a very able man and senator. His state and nation suffer a great loss." It was announced that the regular session of the senate tomorrow would be adjourned out of respect to the late senator.

WANT GUARANTEE WITH THOMPSON "GOOD WILL" BID

Mayor Thompson's invitation to the Association of Commerce of Moline, Ill., to send a good will delegation to Chicago April 11, 12, and 13 was received and contents duly noted on Thursday. Yesterday a clipping from the Moline Daily Dispatch reached here, giving the following account of the action taken:

"Inasmuch as the mayor of Chicago failed to mention any facilities for protecting his guests from bombs and machine guns, as well as entertaining them, officials of the Association of Commerce stated that it was improbable that Moline would accept the invitation."

"What good is a free luncheon if you're dead?" was the sentiment expressed by one prominent member of the board of directors."

Dr. Helwig, in Court, Denies Kidnaping Charge.

Dr. Alvin G. Helwig, 1907 Berteau avenue, physician in the police surgeon's office, was arraigned on charges of assault and battery and kidnaping brought by Ernest von Furestenberg of 4854 North Irving avenue, before Judge Matthew Hartigan yesterday. Von Furestenberg accuses the doctor of beating him and then carrying him to the police station, where, he says, he was forced to sign a confession of intimacy with Dr. Helwig's estranged wife. Dr. Helwig denied the charge and was granted a continuance until April 12 to bring in witnesses.

Willis' Death May Put Lowden Into Ohio Fight

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—The sudden death of Senator Frank B. Willis, Ohio presidential candidate, has given an unexpected turn to the Republican pre-convention contest.

Some Hoover supporters predicted tonight that the secretary of commerce, who invaded Ohio in opposition to Willis, will sweep the state in the primaries April 24.

Against this view, however, it was pointed out that thirty-four of the fifty-one Willis candidates for delegate formally indicated Frank O. Lowden as their second choice while others expressed second choice preference for Senator Curtis (Rep., Kas.) and for Senator Watson (Rep., Ind.).

This situation, it was argued, gives the Lowden forces an opportunity to take up Willis' fight against Hoover.

If they do, Ohio will furnish the only primary contest with a direct test of sentiment between Hoover and Lowden.

Against Lowden Strategy.

According to information available here, it will be impossible for Speaker Nicholas Longworth to get into the contest. Mr. Longworth was talked of last fall as a likely candidate for Ohio's choice as its favorite son.

Lowden's name has been entered in only three primary states this far. North Dakota, South Dakota and Illinois, and his strategy has been to stay out of the Hoover states.

Whether or not it will suit the Lowden managers to make a fight in Ohio at this late date is not known. It may develop that many of the Willis delegates, even though they have indicated Lowden as second choice, may prefer to support Hoover now that their favorite son candidate has been eliminated. It has been charged that Senator Willis exerted every possible influence through his control of federal patronage in Ohio to keep the Republican state organization in line for him.

Name Stays on Ballot.

The last date for filing nominating petitions has gone by in Ohio and there will be no opportunity for a new lineup.

It is stated that under the new voters law of that state the first ballots were sent out five days ago and the primary election therefore is already in progress.

Ohio members of congress say it will be impossible even to drop the name of Senator Willis from the preferential primary ballot. Besides the names of Hoover and Willis on the preferential primary ballot there are two complete sets of candidates for delegates in the field.

DEMOCRAT TO SUCCEED SEN. WILLIS; SPECIAL NOVEMBER ELECTION

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—One effect of the death of Senator Willis of Ohio will be to place a Democrat in the senate in place of a Republican. It is assumed that Gov. Donahy, a Democrat, will appoint a member of his own party, possibly former Senator Pomeroy, now one of the government counsel in the oil cases. Mr. Pomeroy was an unsuccessful candidate against Senator Willis and previously was defeated by Senator Fess (Rep., O.).

It is assumed that a special election will be held in November for the balance of the Willis term. This will mean that both Ohio senators will be elected in November as the term of Senator Fess expires next March. The senatorial primaries come in the fall.

GIRL CONFESSES SHE SHOT FORMER BOSS TO DEATH

Niles, Mich., March 30.—(U.P.)—Miss Margarette Bumbaugh of Warsaw, Ind., confessed tonight, police said, that she shot and fatally wounded Walter H. Cook, wealthy basket maker, here today because he refused to pay her $3,375 in back wages and notes she claimed Cook owed her.

The girl had been his private secretary when he operated a lumber mill in Warsaw five years ago. She entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned and hearing was set for the 6th of April.

Accompanied by her two brothers, Harry and Judd, Miss Bumbaugh entered Cook's office and made her demands. Cook started to walk away and Miss Bumbaugh, witnesses say, drew a pistol and fired.

In her confession, police say, Miss Bumbaugh charged that Cook struck her with a basket before she fired the fatal shot.

Police Chief Francis said he found Cook lying on the floor directing his stenographer to make out a check for $2,500. Judd Bumbaugh attempted to check the check at a bank 10 minutes later.

Miss Betty Erikson, 24 years old, former nurse, yesterday sued Howard Capper, son of the former head of Capper & Capper, clothing, for $100,000 charging bureau and made threats of assault and kidnapping.

Following Mr. Capper's fourth marriage several weeks ago, Miss Erikson is said to have appeared at the marriage license bureau and made threats against Capper and his bride. Capper caused Miss Erikson's arrest and she was held in jail for two hours. When the case was called, Capper did not appear and she was discharged.

The suit was filed by Attorney Maurice Marchello.

holding this job now are not burns. It's a good job; it pays $3,500 a year and that's not to be sniffed at. All high class fellows, and I believe every one of 'em honest."

Around the transportation building everybody talked of Golding as a "hard boiled guy." He is said to have been first a New York policeman, then a revenue agent.

Golding told the raiders' version of the shooting of Beatty both to Mr. Northrup and to the grand jury. He said he and his raiders had burst into the saloon by three entrances. Beatty and his wife sat in the rear of the place. An agent named Myron Caffey, from South Carolina, where he had been two years in the revenue service, walked up to Beatty and said, "Stuck 'em up!" But Caffey had no gun in his hand as he said it.

"As Agent Caffey said 'Stuck 'em up!'" Golding told Mr. Northrup. "Beatty drew his gun. Then Caffey also drew his gun and Beatty tried to get out of the side door and run. I told Caffey to fire in the air. He did fire one shot in the air, and when Beatty didn't stop he fired again and hit him."

The raiders showed Mr. Northrup a revolver which they said Beatty had. They claimed to have found it in a prairie across the street from the scene of the shooting. They made no claim, however, that any shots had been fired from it.

Physician Tells of Wound.

Dr. Joseph P. Graf of 506 West 77th street, who is attending Beatty, said Beatty was shot in the back. He said the bullet entered just below and behind the left armpit. It came out the chest, shattering from behind a watch in Beatty's vest pocket.

Woodlawn police, despite the federal agents, during the day obtained from Beatty's wife, Hannah, her version of the shooting. She signed a statement saying:

"We had been in the saloon about 10 or 15 minutes when we heard a scramble in the front and saw hands sticking up in the air. My husband said, 'Let's go; it's a stickup.' We went for the back door. When we got out there was a man standing there with a machine gun. Willie, my husband, raised his hands and pushed his way past. He walked west towards State street and I heard the shots. I stepped back into the saloon and sat down. The next thing I heard

AL SMITH WILL SIGN N. Y. RENT RELIEF BILL DESPITE LEGAL FLAW

Albany, N. Y., March 30.—(Special.)—Gov. Smith indicated today that he will sign the Granthall rent bill, making it discretionary with the court to grant a six months' stay in case action is brought to evict a tenant in spite of an error in numbering the sections of the measure.

"I have found," he said, "that the Court of Appeals has repeatedly held that the wrong numbering of sections does not invalidate a bill where the intent is clear."

The governor is expected to sign today or tomorrow the companion bill extending the emergency rent laws.

DRY AGENTS INDICTED

Former Chief Inspector Herbert L. Rees of the prohibition agents and inspectors, Mayor Charles Thompson of Specialville, southwestern suburb, and fourteen others were named in indictments returned yesterday by the federal grand jury in a series of charges alleging extortion, bribery, and liquor conspiracy.

The dry agents named in the indictments are Jacob Maas, dry agent who a year ago shot Frank Davis, a cripple; Edward F. Daugherty, at one time acting enforcement chief; E. J. McElroy, Harry R. Smith, William Jones, colored; Horace Lyle, colored; Peodor Kuhn and Eugene Blackburn.

Charge Plots and Bribery.

Maas and Daugherty are charged with conspiring with William S. Suchier, former pal of Joseph "Yellow Kid" Well; Henry Finklestein, Carl Friedlander, and Peter Miller in the operation of a still at 13 West Illinois street. This still is alleged to be one of a group operated by the liquor syndicate of which Al. Titus Haffa was named as chief in a recent indictment.

Rees is charged with extorting $50 from C. E. Slater, druggist at 2001 West Lake street. Smith is alleged to have taken a $50 bribe from Abraham May, owner of the Royal Pharmacy at 1102 Van Buren street, and $100 from Jean Miller, druggist at

SAYS HAYS TRIED TO RUSH TEAPOT INQUIRY IN 1924

Ex-Senator Quotes Ladd Spurning the Advice.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Pressure was brought to bear by Will H. Hays to end the senatorial investigation in 1924, according to a story told today by former Senator Ladd of Colorado.

Mr. Hays was said to have urged the late Senator Ladd of North Dakota, then chairman of the Teapot Dome investigating committee, to drop the inquiry in order that it might not cause trouble for the Republican party. Former Senator Adams was a member of the committee at the time and was told of the incident by Mr. Ladd.

Interesting, But—Senator Nye (Rep., N. D.), present chairman of the committee, said that while he regarded it as interesting in connection with the disclosures recently made of the handling of Sinclair money by Hays in wiping out the Republican campaign deficit, he saw no reason to recall the former chairman of the Republican national committee to ask him about it, but may ask Mr. Adams to tell his story to the committee.

Douglas McArthur, however, who was Senator Ladd's secretary in 1924 and now is Senator Nye's secretary, said confirmed former Senator Adams' story of the Hays incident. Mr. Adams was unable to recall whether Mr. Hays sought to influence Mr. Ladd before or after he had first testified before the committee. In his official testimony Mr. Hays admitted a $75,000 contribution from Harry Sinclair, but said nothing about other amounts given by him or the schemes used to make it appear that others gave the money.

Mr. Adams' Story.

According to Mr. Adams' story, Senator Ladd was summoned to the White House and supposed that some of the executive offices desired to see him. Upon arriving there he was met by Mr. Hays, who asked him to sit with him while they discussed the situation. Mr. Hays suggested that it might not be well for them to be seen together and also was unwilling to let Senator Ladd's automobile be the scene of the presence of the chauffeur. They got into a taxicab and drove around town for about an hour, and Senator Ladd followed in the same car. Mr. Hays suggested that the investigation seemed likely to hurt the Republican party and told Senator Ladd that he should join with other Republicans on the committee to close it at the earliest possible date. Mr. Adams says he was told by Mr. Ladd, then chairman of the Teapot Dome committee, that he was to wind up the oil investigation. Hays, however, was as mum as a proverbial oyster on this subject.

HAYS DECLINES COMMENT.

PARIS, March 30.—[Special.]—Will H. Hays tonight declined to comment on his assertion by former Senator Ladd of Colorado or on any other aspect of the oil inquiry. He was told that Mr. Adams had related to the senate which took precedence over that to his party. He drove the taxicab and transferred to a new car.

Resolute withdrawal of Martin W. Peterson of New York as counsel for Sinclair was suggested by Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.), prosecutor in the Teapot Dome senatorial investigation, today in the senate.

FALL CONTINUES STORY

El Paso, Tex., March 30.—[Special.]—Because of the weakened condition of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, it was necessary today to slow in the taking of a deposition from him to be used by Harry F. Sinclair in his trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the leasing of Teapot Dome.

Fall is now to take Mr. Fall to California Sunday if Alvin Pomeroy, special government counsel, finishes with the cross-examination tomorrow. Fall has been urged to go to California by physicians.

Fall's testimony was taken in the possession of the library of his home in Sinclair's counsel, Daniel Thew right.

Sinclair accepted the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve with reluctance, after once rejecting it, as he said Fall would testify today. "It's in your lease, Mr. Secretary, I have done with it," Fall was expected to quote Sinclair as saying.

Concerning the Liberty bonds he received from Sinclair, the former secretary insisted they were paid him as a third interest in the Teapot Dome and Land company, which deal was not taken up until after the oil was had been signed.

SLEET AND SNOW STORMS DAMAGE WIRE TRAFFIC

Severe damage was caused in many parts of the middle west yesterday by a sleet and snow storm, the second of the week. Between Columbus and Lima, O., telephone and telegraph companies reported that 500 poles had been carried down by the weight of the sleet coating and that service was paralyzed.

Further to the east, in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, wire facilities were hampered. Wisconsin and parts of Illinois and Indiana had heavy snowfalls. On several railroad systems through trains were delayed more than an hour.

At Washington, Pa., the wind reached gale force and a telephone operator was seriously injured when the building that housed the exchange was partially blown down.

The wintry temperatures and precipitation are not expected to last longer. The official weather bureau forecast was for clear skies and rising mercury today. A reaction to warmer had already set in over the great plains region last night.

COURT ORDERS REMUS FREE, BUT THERE'S A HITCH

Held Sane; State Will Appeal Verdict.

Lima, O., March 30.—[Special.]—The path to freedom lay open before George Remus, Cincinnati "bootleg king," for a few hours today, but tonight barriers appeared in his way.

The court of appeals at Lima granted Remus a writ of habeas corpus this morning freeing him from the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane, but Remus, under the law, cannot be released for 48 hours, or until Sunday morning, pending an appeal by the state authorities.

E. M. Botkin, Allen county prosecutor, announced tonight that he would either ask for a stay of judgment, a new trial, or make an appeal to the Ohio Supreme court on the ground that the court of appeals here was without jurisdiction.

The court of appeals in its verdict voted two to one that Remus, who shot and killed his wife, Imogene, in Eden park, Cincinnati, last Oct. 6, was sane, and therefore was illegally held here. Judges M. P. Crow and Kent W. Hughes voted for the release. Judge Charles L. Justice dissented.

But while the two judges voted to free Remus they spoke frankly their opinion about the case.

"It may be that the verdict in the trial at Cincinnati, which verdict acquitted the petitioner on the sole ground of insanity at the time he committed the homicide, was a miscarriage of justice," the majority opinion said.

Remus was elated this morning when Frank Remus, his Lima attorney, notified him of the verdict.

While the duration of Remus' stay in the hospital was still doubtful tonight, it appeared likely that he might have to return to jail if he goes back to Cincinnati.

During his murder trial, Judge Chester R. Shook held him in contempt and sentence never has been passed on him. The maximum is ten days in jail and a fine of $500.

Prosecutor Disappointed.

Cincinnati, O., March 30.—[Special.]—Charles P. Taft II, county prosecutor, who conducted the prosecution of Remus, said:

"I am very much disappointed, but

LIGHTNING HITS RADIO AERIAL; KILLS BOY WHO WAS LISTENING IN

Atlantic City, N. J., March 30.—[Special.]—A bolt of lightning hit the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howe tonight, killing Dennis, aged 10, and severely burning Charles and William, 11 and 12 respectively.

When the lightning struck the three boys were sitting on the floor eating nuts and listening to a radio program. The bolt, which is believed to have come down the chimney through which the radio aerial was strung, filled the room with smoke and flames.

The screams of the three boys attracted their parents and an older brother, John, who carried the children, their clothes aflame, out of door. A heavy rain served to extinguish the flames, but Dennis died a few minutes later.

The fight to keep Remus behind the bars will go on.

ROMOLA "SO HAPPY."

"I'm so happy!" exclaimed the released man's daughter, Romola Remus, when the news reached her at her home, 3802 Pine Grove avenue. "We knew it was coming, but it was so long to wait. I expect father will visit Chicago within the next few days."

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York Times.)

PARIS, March 30.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, whom matrimonial experiences never fail to interest, arrived in Paris this afternoon with the news she is marking time until she finds a suitable mate for a companionate marriage.

Peggy brought with her the enormous diamond she bought recently, which she values at $450,000. She explained she is accompanied by a detective assigned by an insurance company to keep a keen eye on the diamond.

Peggy disclaimed all idea of an intention to reward in the usual way. "I am young and want to work," she said. "Mental companionship is what I am looking for in my next husband."

CHARGE ELOPER, 74, LEAVES WIFE IN HOME TOWN

Anthony Koppen, 74 years old, wealthy real estate dealer of Peru, Ill., was in Chicago last night enjoying a honeymoon with Mrs. Mary Brockway Koppen, 54 years old, in her home at 2908 East 91st street. Relatives of Mr. Koppen charged that he left an invalid wife at home and are contemplating action to take him back to Peru.

Koppen was found in the bride's home, comfortably puffing a pipe and resting his slippers feet on a footstool. He asserted that he had divorced his first wife two years ago and that he left home because of friction with his children.

Married in Ottawa.

Dispatches from Peru said that Koppen's actions last Tuesday have caused his relatives to assert that he is mentally deranged. He kissed his wife good-by, told her he was going on an errand and journeyed to Ottawa, Ill., where he obtained a marriage license, giving his age as 55. He and Mrs. Brockway were married by County Judge Harry Beck.

"We don't know the Chicago woman," Mrs. John Odell, his daughter, declared. "Mother or I never heard of her and we don't know where father got acquainted with her."

Believes Him Crazy.

"He must have been crazy to do such a thing," Mrs. Koppen asserted. At his age, no one in his right mind would think of getting romantic. "If there's been any trouble started, it's because of my daughter, Mrs. Odell," retorted Koppen to an interviewer. "I left a home where everything was unpleasant. I got a divorce from my wife two years ago. I don't know if she knew about it or not."

BOGUS NOBLEMAN IS JAILED.

Robert Preston, 21, who represented himself as the son of an English nobleman, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell penitentiary by Judge Otto Kerner when he admitted having obtained $800 through a confidence game from Albert Palmer, publicity agent for the Palmer house.

AID OF DE VALERA BURLEY'S TAKES OUSTED BY DAIL; OVERTON STORE DEBATE BITTER ON MICHIGAN AVE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

DUBLIN, March 30.—For making unfounded allegations against Patrick McGilligan, minister of industry and commerce, in the Dail Eireann today, Deputy Aiken, Eamon de Valera's chief lieutenant, was suspended by the speaker and ordered to leave the Dail. Sean O'Kelly, who associated himself with Mr. Aiken's charges, also was requested to withdraw his allegations, which, after wrangling, he did.

The incident occurred during a debate concerning political prisoners which the Flanna Fail (de Valera's party) desired released. Mr. Aiken said that on the morning Minister Kevin O'Higgins was murdered, Mr. McGilligan drove past the spot and refused to go for a clergyman for the dying man. Mr. McGilligan hotly denied this and was supported by Minister of Lands and Agriculture Patrick Hogan.

Another concern long established in the loop is moving to the North Michigan avenue district. It was learned yesterday with the announcement that Burley & Co., china and glassware, 1 North Wabash avenue, has taken over the business of Ovington Brothers' company at 212 North Michigan avenue and will move into the Michigan avenue store on May 1.

"Modern business is undoubtedly turning towards the small shop," said an official of Burley's. "The North Michigan avenue shopping district is fast becoming a most important retail center."

Only a portion of the Ovington stock was included in the deal, the figures on which were not given out. The Ovington store, a branch of a New York house, was opened here three years ago. R. H. Thornberg is president of Burley's, which was established in Chicago in 1925 and has occupied the Wabash avenue store since 1926.

RUTH M'CORMICK PACKS 'EM IN AT MEETING IN LOOP

Machine Made Politicians
Surprised at Crowd.

Old line politicians, who, when they went there to see what happened, expected, perhaps, to smile, raised their eyebrows in surprise yesterday when a lone candidate, unsupported by any machine, drew such a crowd at a noon meeting in a loop theater that scores were turned away.

Rarely in past campaigns have such meetings been called with only a single speaker on the bill. When they have been held it has been with organizers about the best they hoped for was that the lower floor would be filled.

Finishes Downstate Drive.
The occasion was the return of Mrs. McCormick, a candidate for the Republican nomination for congresswoman at large, from her final downstate trip. It was a combination of welcome with the opening of the Chicago end of her battle.

When she was driven up to the headquarters of the Ruth Hanna McCormick volunteers in the Palmer house shortly before noon she had completed 16,000 miles by automobile alone, had spoken in nearly every one of the 101 downstate counties, and had delivered a total of several hundred speeches.

She had finished what is considered the biggest and hardest campaign ever undertaken by a woman candidate for office. There have been woman candidates for higher offices, such as that of governor, it was explained, but never before did a woman candidate go out after a majority of a vote so large as that of the Illinois Republicans.

Personal Interest Draws Crowd.
This personal interest in her race was said to account to some extent for the size of the crowd at the Four Cohans, a large segment of which waited on the sidewalk to see Mrs. McCormick as she came out. There had been an appeal for her to speak to the overflow in the lobby, but other immediate engagements prevented that.

Mrs. McCormick recognized the personal interest in her candidacy as soon as she was introduced by Mrs. Hathaway Watson, chairman of her volunteer organization. Before discussing her platform, the chief plank of which is the outlawing of war, the candidate told considerable of her own history, how she had acted as secretary for her father, Mark Hanna, had campaigned with him and had sat in with him on secret caucuses, and then had done the same with her husband, the late Medill McCormick.

She said she was a farmer and demanded for agriculture, not relief but the same protection that is given other industries. She talked for adequate national defense but against competitive armament programs.

Before she spoke David E. Shanahan, dean of the Illinois house of representatives, who said he had known her since girlhood, described her as "representing the finest type of American womanhood."

Smith Behind Glenn in Poll, but Runs Ahead of Ticket

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Frank L. Smith, who is trying again to crash the locked doors of the United States senate, is making a considerably better showing in THE TRIBUNE's experimental poll of primary votes than is either Gov. Small or State's Attorney Crowe, both of whom are seeking renomination. Assuming, for illustrative purposes only, that 600,000 votes will be cast in the Republican primary in Chicago on April 10-16, 600 were polled in the last Republican primary on the mayoralty candidates—Mr. Smith is running 46,800 votes ahead of Mr. Crowe in the poll and 56,400 votes ahead of Mr. Small.

But at that Mr. Smith is being outdistanced by his opponent, Otis F. Glenn, by two to one exactly, according to the straws received. Taking these straw ballots for what they are worth, and without recommendation, they show Louis L. Emmerson getting 3-1-3 votes to each one for Gov. Small and John A. Swanson, with nearly three votes for each one for Crowe.

7,938 "Vote" on Senator.
Of the total of 60,000 straw ballots sent to Republican primary voters, a total of 7,938 have been marked on the senatorship and returned. The distribution of these between the two senatorial candidates is as follows:

Candidate	Votes	Percent
Otis F. Glenn	5,292	66.65
Frank L. Smith	2,646	33.35
Totals	7,938	100.00

This poll on the senatorship confirms the inferences drawn from the straw votes on the contest for governor and state's attorney. The Small-Thompson-Crowe crowd has been publicly proclaiming its purpose of "drafting Coolidge," but the poll indicates they are privately boosting for Vice President Dawes for the Presidency. Small and Crowe each received the largest percentage of their straws from Dawes supporters.

Smith in Same Boat.
The same is true of Frank L. Smith. He received two and a half times as many straws from Dawes followers as from Coolidge supporters. It is probably more accurate to say that the Small-Thompson-Crowe-Smith combination gave two and a half times as much of its support to Dawes as to Coolidge. The following table shows how many straws each senatorial candidate received from each Presidential possibility:

	Glenn	Smith
Dawes	2,261	43.73
Coolidge	1,683	31.80
Hoover	1,238	23.39
Other	116	2.08
Totals	5,292	66.65

The recent bombings and threats of more appear to have reduced the straw votes for Mr. Smith as well as for Gov. Small and State's Attorney Crowe. In the first bundle of votes last Thursday Mr. Smith received nearly 11 per cent more straws than in the batch counted yesterday.

The table below shows the fluctuation in the various packages of votes counted, a general decline in the percentage for Mr. Smith and the general increase for Mr. Glenn:

	Glenn	Smith
Total	5,292	2,646
1st	438	219
2nd	1,350	675
3rd	2,464	1,242
4th	1,060	530
5th	290	140
6th	271	135
7th	419	216
8th	372	186
9th	222	111

SMALL NEGLECTS CHICAGO INSANE, JUDGE DECLARES

Hospitals Overcrowded, Jarecki Says.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who is charged with the disposition of all cases of insanity in Cook county, yesterday criticized the state administration for its failure to provide adequate quarters for Chicago's insane patients.

"It is with the greatest hesitation that I send patients to either of three institutions, Elgin, Kankakee, or Dunning, which are stations for Cook county's insane," said Judge Jarecki. "Because of its accessibility to Chicago, the most desirable asylum for our purposes is Dunning. But here the institution is undermanned and overcrowded. Many of the patients are quartered in beds placed in the corridors."

State's Duty, Judge Says.
"The duty of providing for the feeble minded of Cook county rests with the state administration. This function of the state government has been regarded by the Len Small regime with complete apathy, to say the least."

The lack of quarters in state asylums, Judge Jarecki declared, allows dangerous morons to roam at large about Chicago.

"The asylums at Dunning, Kankakee, and Elgin are merely places of confinement and they are terribly overcrowded," he said. "We hesitate to send patients to any of them and do so only when absolutely necessary."

"All Places Overcrowded."
"It is practically impossible for Cook county to send a feeble minded case to either of the state institutions for feeble minded. They haven't room and that is the trouble with all the institutions."

"More than 300 patients at the Elgin state hospital are sleeping on cots in halls and the condition is worse at the other asylums. What are we going to do? Each week I commit an average of eighty persons to asylums, 4,000 a year."

"A new asylum for the insane has been urgently needed for the protection of the citizens of Chicago and for the humane care of its insane. But Len Small's administration has failed to make a move in this direction."

X-RAY MACHINE BURNS.
While Dr. Fred Schwartz was away from his dental office in the Marshall Field annex yesterday noon, an X-ray machine burst into flames and caused damages estimated at $250 before it was extinguished.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who is charged with the disposition of all cases of insanity in Cook county, yesterday criticized the state administration for its failure to provide adequate quarters for Chicago's insane patients.

"It is with the greatest hesitation that I send patients to either of three institutions, Elgin, Kankakee, or Dunning, which are stations for Cook county's insane," said Judge Jarecki. "Because of its accessibility to Chicago, the most desirable asylum for our purposes is Dunning. But here the institution is undermanned and overcrowded. Many of the patients are quartered in beds placed in the corridors."

State's Duty, Judge Says.
"The duty of providing for the feeble minded of Cook county rests with the state administration. This function of the state government has been regarded by the Len Small regime with complete apathy, to say the least."

The lack of quarters in state asylums, Judge Jarecki declared, allows dangerous morons to roam at large about Chicago.

"The asylums at Dunning, Kankakee, and Elgin are merely places of confinement and they are terribly overcrowded," he said. "We hesitate to send patients to any of them and do so only when absolutely necessary."

"All Places Overcrowded."
"It is practically impossible for Cook county to send a feeble minded case to either of the state institutions for feeble minded. They haven't room and that is the trouble with all the institutions."

"More than 300 patients at the Elgin state hospital are sleeping on cots in halls and the condition is worse at the other asylums. What are we going to do? Each week I commit an average of eighty persons to asylums, 4,000 a year."

"A new asylum for the insane has been urgently needed for the protection of the citizens of Chicago and for the humane care of its insane. But Len Small's administration has failed to make a move in this direction."

REED SAYS G.O.P. ROBS FARMER TO ENRICH BUSINESS

Senator Opens Midwest Campaign on W-G-N.

(Picture on back page.) Senator James A. Reed of Missouri made the first midwest speech in his presidential campaign last night over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, and declared the Republican party was responsible for the currency deflation, "which was one of the great causes of the agricultural depression."

He discussed the oil scandals from Daugherty and Fall to Will Hays. He referred to Secretary Herbert Hoover as "the distinguished re-patriated ex-patriate" and charged him with illegally facing a maximum of $2.20 for wheat during war days, causing a loss to the farmers of $700,000,000 in two years. He addressed the appeal which the Democratic party is planning to advance in the agricultural regions in the impending campaign.

Starts Wisconsin Campaign. This morning Senator Reed goes to Milwaukee where he speaks tonight. Thence he will travel to Fond du Lac and Green Bay for speeches Monday; he is entered in Wisconsin's presidential primaries, which will be held Tuesday.

Gov. Al Smith of New York has two pledged delegate states contesting to see which shall go to Houston to support him. Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana has a state of delegates at large entered, and Mr. Reed is without opposition on the preferential ballot. Senator Reed in his prefatory remarks last night laid down a brief platform, containing among other planks:

"Honest administration of government."

"Swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers and other malefactors."

"Repeal of all laws creating special privilege."

"The dismissal of an army of spies, snipers, sneaks and informers."

"The liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by governmental agents."

Questions Republican Boast. "The great boast of the Republican administration," said Senator Reed, "is that it has produced prosperity. I wish this boast were true."

"Unfortunately the claim of the administration is not true. Let us determine what kind of prosperity we enjoy. It must be admitted:

"(1) That great financial houses are making enormous profits."

"(2) That many transportation companies are in a highly prosperous condition, and that others are approaching that condition."

"(3) That the steel industry is highly prosperous."

"(4) That in general, most of the manufacturing concerns are paying dividends, and in some instances very high dividends."

"Incidentally it may be remarked that from these favored classes have come the campaign contributions which have enabled the Republican managers to win successes at the polls."

What About the Farmer?

"But can it be contended when the entire agricultural class, over 50 per cent of the population is struggling with adversity, that the country is really prosperous?

"In eight years of the Wilson administration there were only 578 bank failures."

"In the seven years of the Harding-Coolidge administration there have been approximately 3,755 bank failures and 452 of these were national banks. Equally significant is the fact that 2,800 of the failures occurred in the twelve leading agricultural states."

"There are in the United States today approximately 4,000,000 men out of employment. Bread lines have been formed in some of the cities."

"One of the great causes of agricultural depression was the deflation of the currency. That deflation was demanded by the Republican convention in 1920. It was approved and sanctioned by no less a person than Herbert Hoover, who, on Aug. 21, 1920, at Minneapolis, declared:

"Deflation is necessary to reduce prices and correct the business situation."

Kate J. Adams Resigns from Committee of Fifteen

Miss Adams made a complete record of the work in the Morals court for 18 months for use as material for research projects to be undertaken by the committee in cooperation with the University of Chicago.

COURT RESTRAINS YOUNG DEAN FROM GETTING MARRIED

Elopement Must Wait Till He's 21 Years Old.

An injunction restraining 20 year old J. Clarke Dean Jr., son of the wealthy grain and stock operator, from marrying until he is 21 years old was issued yesterday afternoon by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath at the petition of the youth's father. The order will be effective until young Dean's birthday, Aug. 12.

The action was taken in anticipation of the issuance of a divorce decree today to Mrs. Josephine Seeburger Lasher, 21 years old. At the divorce hearing a week ago, the youth announced that he intended to elope with and marry Mrs. Lasher as soon as she became free from her first husband, Howard.

First Injunction of Kind. The wedding injunction issued by Judge Sabath is said to be the first of its kind. The youth will be in contempt of court if he violates the order and may be sentenced to jail if he marries Mrs. Lasher or any one else until he is of legal age.

Mrs. Lasher, according to the injunction, is also restrained from marrying any one else.

Mr. Dean Sr. is in Europe. When he was informed of his son's assertion that he intended to marry Mrs. Lasher he cabled instructions to his lawyer, John D. Black, and the injunction bill was filed.

Fears Loss of Control. The petition stated that the father now has parental control over his son and that he would lose it if the youth married. Marriage of minors is contrary to the public policy of the state of Illinois, the petition declared, and young Dean should be made to wait until he is 21 years old. Furthermore, he has no means of support, is not employed, and could not support a wife, it was said in the petition.

JUDGE'S JEWELRY RECOVERED. Jewelry valued at $2,000, stolen last September from the home of Judge Francis B. Rell, has been recovered through the arrest in Miami, Fla., of Frank Caldwell, escaped convict, and his wife, the judge announced yesterday. The total value of the stolen jewels was $6,000.

EIGHT FISHERMEN HELD PRISONERS IN LAKE ERIE ICE

PORT DOVER, Ont., March 30.—Eight fishermen on a crippled tug are at the mercy of raging Lake Erie today while an ice field imprisons their craft. The men are in no immediate danger, it is believed.

Last night a tug brought two of the exhausted fishermen back from the ice prison, but today a fierce March gale kept the rescue tugs in port.

Tomorrow a huge harbor ice breaker will be brought from Ashtabula, O., to crush through the ice and free both men and boats.

MYSTERY VEILS S. WATER MARKET DYNAMITE PLOT

Thomas O. Wallace Gets Bomb Threat by Phone.

BULLETIN.

Albert R. Brunker, 220 East Walton place, manufacturer of bread wrapping machines, has been warned that his home will be bombed and his daughter Barbara, 24 years old, kidnapped if he does not stay out of politics, he said last night. As a result of these threats made over the telephone Thursday and late yesterday a police guard was ordered to the apartment building in which Brunker and his family live. Mr. Brunker is a Deneen supporter.

A mysterious plot to dynamite part of the South Water produce market and a threat to bomb the home of Circuit Court Clerk Thomas O. Wallace were the developments in Chicago's warfare of explosives yesterday. Mr. Wallace is on the Thompson slate for renomination for court clerk, but is opposing Thompson's candidate for commitment in the 44th ward. Police last night had failed to discover a clue to the motive for the threatened effort to blow up the produce center or to the identity of the dynamite. A huge bomb, consisting of sixteen sticks of dynamite eight inches long and wrapped with black tape, was found on a loading platform near the front door of the two story building at 48 South Water market. A fuse attached to the package had been lighted, but the falling snow apparently had put it out and saved the buildings for a half black around destruction.

It's Mystery to Occupants.

The building is occupied by the S. & H. Levy company and Kaufman & Brown. Officials of the two concerns said they had no idea why their place of business should be the target of bombers.

Since it came soon after the bombings of the homes of United States Senator Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson the police at first ascribed the attempted bombing to political motives.

The dynamite was discovered by Edward Berens, a salesman for the Levy concern, when he arrived at his office. "The bomb was big enough and powerful enough to blow up a dozen buildings," said Police Lieut. James Flynn who hastened to the scene. "There is no doubt it would have caused death as well as property damage."

"I'm not connected with politics," said Solomon Levy, one of the members of the firm, when Lieut. Flynn asked why he thought the bomb was placed there. "We have had no labor troubles."

Denies Kinship to "Potatoes." "We're not in politics, either," said Charles Kaufman, a member of the other concern in the building. "I'm no relative of 'Potatoes' Kaufman, nor is my partner, Al Brown, related to Scarface Al Brown (Capone) of Cicero. Neither of us has been threatened and we can't imagine why any one would want to ruin our building or perhaps kill us."

Julian Kaufman, known as Potatoes, has long been known to the police as a gambler and member of the old O'Banion gang. The police were told he is a distant cousin of Charles Kaufman and they sought him for questioning.

Phone Threat to Wallace.

The threat to bomb the home of Circuit Clerk Wallace was given by telephone to his wife.

"Tell Tom he'd better get out of politics and out of the city or this time we'll blow the house up," said the caller.

The Wallace home was bombed once before, on Jan. 6, 1921, about the time of the exposure of the expert fee scandal of Mayor Thompson's former administration. Since then Wallace has joined forces with the Thompson faction in the city, but has retained his own organization in the 44th ward.

On Thursday night his organization indicted Secretary of State Emmerson for governor and Attorney General Carlstrom for renomination, in opposition to the Thompson workers in the ward.

Ald. Albert Loescher, who represents Wallace's ward, said he had been approached a few days ago by Lincoln park employees who resented Wallace's running against William H. Beckman for ward committeeman.

"You know what they did to Diamond Joe, Wallace had better look out," the Lincoln park employee said, according to Loescher.

The body of a man whose bullet-riddled and burned body was found on a lonely road at 175th street and Stony Island avenue, Homewood, on Thursday night, was identified last evening as that of Charles Adragna, 30 years old, 1424 Taylor street, alcohol peddler and associate of the late Diamond Joe Esposito.

It was through a picture of a baby, found in Adragna's pockets, that his identity was learned. Sergt. Charles Pacelli of the county highway police searched through the Italian section on the west side until he found a woman who recognized the child and told where the slain man's widow lives.

Identified by Estranged Wife. Mrs. Adragna—her first name is Marie—has been estranged from her husband for some weeks and has been living at 5363 Crystal street. She was taken to the undertaking establishment where the body lay and made the identification.

Questioned by Chief James L. Devoreux of the highway police and Lieut. Seiler, she said he had been engaged in the transportation of alcohol from various cities to Chicago, adding that there might have been some connection between his death and that of his friend, Esposito. Another with whom he was on close terms, she asserted, was Samoots Amatuna. Samoots was assassinated more than a year ago in the war of alcohol gangs.

On March 24, Mrs. Adragna had her husband arrested. He was arraigned in the Court of Domestic Relations, where she testified that he had beaten her and threatened to kill her. The case was continued, Adragna being compelled to contribute to the support of her and the baby.

The theory that the murder might have been committed by friends of the wife was given some credence.

"You can take your choice," said Chief Devoreux. "From what his wife says, this Adragna was a bad egg. We haven't any clues to the actual identity of those who took him for a ride."

U. S. FIRMS BID TO RUN BRITISH TELEPHONE LINES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 30.—Within the last year American interests have made a serious bid to acquire the run of the entire internal and external telegraph and telephone services of the United Kingdom. This revelation was made today by F. G. Kellaway, chairman of the Marconi company, at its annual meeting.

Mr. Kellaway argued in favor of the consolidation of all phone, wire and wireless systems in the United Kingdom, on the score of economy. He pointed out how the American systems gained by centralization and declared the great communication companies of the United States rapidly are acquiring control of the systems in South America and Europe.

Mr. Kellaway announced that Mr. Marconi expected soon to reveal research results of a sensational character in the development of telegraphic communication.

REO

MOTOR CAR COMPANY
Chicago, Illinois

Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

We think that it will be of interest to you to know that the Used Car Department of the Chicago Branch of the Reo Motor Car Company has enjoyed the most successful year in its history.

We directly attribute a large part of this success to the consistent placing of our used car advertising in The Chicago Tribune.

We were faced in 1927 with the big problem of quickly moving the many used cars taken in trade on our popular Flying Cloud and Wolverine models. But by the consistent use of the Classified Automobile Column of The Chicago Tribune we were able not only to move this large volume of high grade used cars, but to move them quickly and at a very satisfactory price.

As we believe The Chicago Tribune to be the best medium for advertising used cars in Chicago, we will continue as in the past to place the largest part of our copy in your paper.

Very truly yours,
REO CHICAGO BRANCH.

Assistant Manager.

Reo Found the Highroad to Success!

AT THE end of the most successful year in their history, The Reo Motor Company paused to write the accompanying letter to The Tribune.

Mr. Clayton, assistant manager, says that Tribune Want Ads are largely responsible for their success. Reo was able to move the largest volume of used cars they had ever handled most quickly and at the least cost.

So the experience of another outstanding automobile dealer illustrates the effect that generous use of Tribune Want Ads has in giving any business an impulse towards success.

You, too, can achieve satisfaction by the same method, whether you have one or many used cars for sale, for the same medium, and the same market that served Reo so well, are at your command . . . if you call—

GLENN DEMANDS SMITH'S REASON FOR TAKING GIFTS

Challenges Opponent to Discuss 'Real Issue.'

BY PARKE BROWN.

With his two associates, Louis L. Emerson, candidate for governor, and Oscar E. Carlstrom, seeking re-election as attorney general, both speaking in Kewanee, Otis F. Glenn, candidate for United States senator on the Lowden-Deneen ticket, invaded Kankakee county, Gov. Small's home territory, last night and there challenged Frank L. Smith to discuss what he said was the real issue of the campaign.

That issue, Mr. Glenn declared, is an "issue of currency," to which he later referred as "currency issued from the coffers of utility magnates" to Mr. Smith's previous campaign for the senate. He was received heartily by the anti-Small forces of the county, which, although the governor controls most of the political machinery, are substantial.

Demand Explanation.
Mr. Glenn said his opponent had been discussing state rights, farm relief, the world court, the league of nations and other subjects as the issues of their battle. Then he fired a list of questions at Mr. Smith with the demand: "Explain if you can."

The questions included in that challenge were the following:
"Why did the public utility magnates paid $200,000 and more to send you to the United States senate?"
"Why did you accept such money from those men—the chief litigants before you—while, as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, you were deciding cases of vast importance to such contributors—involving millions of dollars to them and to the people of Illinois?"

"Having served for more than six years in that position, did you not know of the Illinois statute prohibiting your acceptance of such funds under penalty of removal from office?"
"Why was the $200,000 all paid in currency?"
"Why was $25,000 of those funds given to Thompson in currency?"
"Why did you spend $457,000 to be nominated for an office to serve six years at a total salary of $60,000?"
"How much did you spend in the election and who furnished it?"

He discussed each of these questions as he asked it and then continued:
"Why not talk about and explain, if possible, the reasons which led the senate committee appointed by Vice President Dawes to declare you unfit to sit in the senate—the reasons which caused 61 senators to vote to exclude you?"

"The issue is not the world court, farm relief, the league of nations or state rights. It is currency. Why not discuss it?"

Good Roads Claim Attacked.
You have repeatedly assailed the senate committee which heard the evidence in your case and reported against you. Do you believe Charles G. Dawes, a Republican Vice President, appointed an unfair committee to investigate charges of corruption against a member of his party, a committee prejudiced against his state?"

At Kewanee, Secretary of State Emmerson attacked Gov. Small's good roads claims in his race for a third term.

"It is obvious," he said, "that Gov. Small is our 'good roads governor' only when he can make use of food construction for political purposes. He and his political associates who are trying to retain control of the government for a third term are making a desperate effort to convince the voters that highway construction began with him and will end with him. Neither assertion is true."

- Dist.
1. Ben. W. Clayton, Ida B. Wells-Barnett.
2. Daniel P. Traub, David F. Malchett.
3. John Bain, George H. Gibson.

6. Ed. H. Loubeck, Frank W. Sweet.
7. John C. Pierce, Frank P. Murphy.
8. A. M. Collins, Peter Sikora Jr.
9. A. F. W. Siebel, Charles H. Parkes.

A similar downstate list has not been made available because in many districts there are more than two candidates pledged to support former Gov. Lowden.

ADMIRAL PRATT NEW COMMANDER OF BATTLE FLEET

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—In an extensive realignment of ranking officers of the navy, Admiral W. V. Pratt will become commander of the battle fleet, and Rear Admiral Taylor will assume command of the scouting fleet in Atlantic waters during the summer.

The transfers were described by Secretary Wilbur as being in the nature of routine changes made necessary by termination of sea duty tours of the officers.

Admiral L. R. De Steiguer is to be relieved from command of the battle fleet in the Pacific and become commandant of the third naval district and of the navy yard at New York, filling the post left vacant through retirement of Rear Admiral Plunkett.

Former Divinity Student Pleads Guilty to Theft

Clarence O. Uhl, 33 years old, 643 Library place, Evanston, former student at Garrett Biblical institute, who confessed thefts from rooms of institute students when arrested a month ago, yesterday pleaded guilty to one of four charges of larceny before Judge Emanuel Eller. On making the plea he applied for probation. A hearing on the motion was set for April 6. At the time of his arrest Uhl declared he stole to help support his wife.

CARAWAY CALLS WORK "COWARD" AND PUTS UP CHIP

Accuses Secretary of Insult to Vet.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—Secretary of the Interior Work came in for denunciation in the senate today at the hands of Senator Caraway [Dem., Ark.].

Secretary Work was accused of insulting Col. Clyde L. Estes, wounded war veteran, who called on him as the representative of the governor of Texas to urge the establishment of a national park in the Ouchata forest in Texas and Arkansas. Denouncing Secretary Work as a "coward," Senator Caraway said he would "waive any senatorial privilege if the secretary of the interior wants to answer me anywhere or any time." Col. Estes was described as a veteran who had been "shot to pieces" in the world war.

"When Col. Estes reached Secretary Work's office the secretary said he knew all about Texas and Arkansas that he wanted to know," Senator Caraway said. "He called Col. Estes a liar and ordered him out of his office."

"It was a transaction so disgraceful and so cowardly that I resent it here. Work said things to this wounded war veteran in his office that he would never have said in the corridor outside."

"The secretary took advantage of his position to insult a man who had offered to lay down his life for his country when his country needed him. This young man is of high character. He came here as the ambassador of a great sovereign state. In the name of every American I want to resent this insult."

"No one but a coward would do it."

DENEEN LEADS FORCES IN LOOP ATTACK TODAY

Senator Charles S. Deneen will make his first speech in the primary campaign at noon today at the Cort Theater, taking as his theme "The Criminal Element Seeking to Dominate Chicago."

The loop rally is to start off the combined county and state Deneen-Lowden-Swanson-Emmerson-Carlstrom-Glenn platform campaign in Chicago. L. L. Emmerson, candidate for governor, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, who is running for reelection, and Otis F. Glenn, candidate United States senator, who have been speaking downstate, readjusted their schedules late yesterday and said they were coming up to make it a real opener. Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate for state's attorney, and Edward R. Litzinger, seeking reelection to the board of review, are other headliners on the program.

Will Talk of Bombs.

Monday night's bombings of the homes of Judge Swanson and Senator Deneen, the reign of lawlessness, and the growing connection between crime and politics are among the topics announced for discussion by the speakers. The purpose of the rally is to throw the local campaign of the Deneenites into high gear and to bring into closer working relations the county and state Deneen-Emmerson-et al alignment.

Reports at Deneen headquarters yesterday were that developments in Chicago have aroused the regions downstate and that Gov. Small's affiliation with Mayor Thompson, though strengthening him in Cook county in an organization way, is weakening him in downstate sections where the Small machine formerly was strong. The Deneen camp yesterday went along with its regular meetings, and the presence of Senator Deneen appeared to accelerate activities at headquarters, which has been suffering from lack of a dominating leadership. It has been without a boss, which usually makes politics lag, and at conferences last night, the Deneenites prepared to jump into it at high noon today, and hit it up for the rest of the campaign fortnight.

The county fight in the final week will be concentrated more than ever on the state's attorneyship. State's Attorney Crowe at his meetings last night kept to the address he has been delivering since the campaign opened. "When they tell you Chicago is the crime center of the world," he said, "resent that charge. I know that the citizenship of Chicago, its men, women and children, represent as fine a type of citizenship as can be found anywhere in the world."

Love to Tell of Crime.

"They never talk about crime in any other city in America; it is only about Chicago's crime. A considerable number of people in this community, and the newspapers take delight in telling the world Chicago is the crime center, that it is a city of iniquity and vice and shame, that there is no decency in Chicago at all. "And they tell you more about that right before election than at any other time. The New York papers do not talk about crime in New York, the New York papers talk about Chicago's crime. The Washington papers talk about Chicago's crime, but do not talk about any crime in the city of Washington."

"All that hurts Chicago. There are more burglaries and robberies per capita in Milwaukee than in Chicago, yet one reads in Milwaukee papers that it is a crimeless city. More murders are committed per capita in Washington than in Chicago. There are thirteen cities in the United States all having a larger murder rate per capita than Chicago. Yet they never talk about this, it is only about Chicago's crime."

Swanson Stresses Crime. Judge Swanson, Deneen candidate against Mr. Crowe, at his night meetings also spoke on crime.

"The state's attorney," he said, "speaks contemptuously of Milwaukee as 'the crimeless city,' but it is significant that Milwaukee has a very good reason for its low crime rate. For example, the public prosecutors in Milwaukee have a record of 71.19 per cent convictions in robbery cases that originated during the year 1926. The state's attorney of this county obtained only 32.33 per cent convictions in the same period. Milwaukee had 59 robbery cases and got convictions in 42 of them, while in Cook county the state's attorney got 870 convictions out of 2,695 cases."

"Milwaukee convicted 89.87 per cent of the burglars brought to trial in the period indicated and Chicago prosecutors were able to get convictions in only 35.59 per cent of the cases they handled. Milwaukee got convictions in 142 cases out of 181 cases, and Chicago successfully prosecuted only 510 cases out of 1,432. The same ratios apply in other classifications."

LEVEL OF FARM PRICES JUMPS 2% IN MONTH

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—The farm price level index prepared by the department of agriculture advanced from 135 to 137 per cent of the pre-war level during the thirty days ending March 15.

In announcing the figures the department observed that the decline in egg prices was largely seasonal. Hay and hog prices also dropped slightly, but at 137 the index is 13 points higher than March 15 last year. The group indexes showed increases in grains, fruits, vegetables, cotton, and cottonseed, and declines, largely seasonal, in the dairy and poultry group.

General meat prices were unchanged, the decline in pork being offset by gains in beef, veal, lamb, and mutton.

The Four-wheel brakes used on the Essex Super-Six are the same type used on costliest cars and assure the maximum brake safety, as well as the softness of control that you associate only with high priced cars. They merely typify the costly way Essex is built throughout—and you can verify this detail by detail, inside and out, by comparison first with costly cars—and then with cars in the Essex price class.

The Essex Super-Six high-compression motor is patented and exclusive, and is so far as we know the most powerful and efficient motor of its size in the world. It eliminates vibration by preventing its occurrence, and so can sustain high speeds, smoothly, effortlessly and indefinitely.

The beautiful Essex instrument board is of ebony finish, grouping under indirect light, grouping gasoline gauge, oil gauge, speedometer and ammeter. Compare it with the costly car instrument boards—which it is like—and with which it is decidedly unlike.

MR. COOLIDGE LAMS MR. THOMPSON ON THE SNOOT.

Mr. Thompson is drafting Mr. Coolidge to get a wet America First.

Mr. Coolidge's prohibition agents have been shifted from the Washington to the Chicago front. Thursday night George E. Golding, chief of the invading force of general investigators, left four automobile loads of raiders with shotguns, rifles, pistols, sledge hammers, and a machine gun into a saloon in South State street where the advent of wet America First was being anticipated.

In the shooting Mr. Coolidge's agents blew a place out of one of Mr. Thompson's political supporters, a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court. The injured citizen was for wet America First and for drafting Coolidge. The shot which hit him was deflected and it is almost certain that he will be able to be about and vote April 10 to draft Coolidge.

When Mr. Thompson's policemen arrived on the scene of what they had been led to believe was one of violence and destruction they were met at the door by Mr. Coolidge's agents. The policemen say the agents told them to get the hell out of there. Mr. Golding, the chief of the new investigators, explained that shots had been fired at his men. "But," he added, "it's none of the police force's business who did it (meaning who shot a place out of the Thompsonite). We can settle this affair in the federal building and I don't care what the police want to know."

And that, if it is of any interest to the city hall, is not from Washington. The investigators have been brought in to brighten up enforcement in the city, when it was thought to be lapping. Al. Titus Haffa of the 43d ward has been in dicted as a result of the new activity. The federal prosecutors name him as the leader in a $5,000,000 alcohol ring. Mr. Haffa is a supporter of Mr. Thompson. He is for wet America First. He is for drafting Coolidge, whose Washington agents are inconsiderate enough to take up some of his time and attention when America and the draft needed him most.

Mr. Thompson understands that Mr. Coolidge is merely dissembling his love for wet America First and concealing his secret desire to be drafted for the Republican nomination on a platform of light wines, beer, and better ally. That is why the Washington investigators are on the local scene finding big breweries and stills, padlocking resorts and indicting and shooting advocates of wet America First and of the presidential draft.

To citizens who haven't the mayor's perceptive discernment it looks like one on the snoot for Mr. Thompson. It is something that isn't done in better cooperative politics. It seems to indicate a lack of team work. It isn't clumpy.

Big Bill the Builder is the inspiration of song. He might dig up an old one: "It may have been well to down your love but why did you kick me down stairs?"

Citizens may be in doubt whether some supporters of Senator Deneen and Judge Swanson blew their homes to shreds by the bill for farm relief introduced by Representative Haugen. Mr. Thompson and State's Attorney Crowe contend, or whether supporters of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Crowe blew up Mr. Deneen's house and Judge Swanson's house to elect the tickets of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Crowe. This is indeed a puzzle and a bewildering, at this writing not near a solution. But it is nothing to the spectacle of Mr. Coolidge's gunmen coming in from Washington to put all the works on Mr. Thompson's friends to advance the cause of wet America First and the draft Coolidge cause.

Credulity can get a crack in the neck even in Chicago politics.

AMMUNITION FOR THE FARMERS.

The house committee on agriculture has approved by a vote of 15 to 6, the bill for farm relief introduced by Representative Haugen. It follows closely the provisions of Senator McNary's bill which has been reported favorably to the senate. Like the McNary-Haugen bill which was passed by the last congress, only to be vetoed by the President, the new one provides for equalization fees and stabilization funds, but with the difference that this method of raising farm prices is not to be employed until treasury loans to cooperative marketing associations have failed to produce the desired results.

There is every reason to believe that the bill will again be approved by congress, and there is reason to hope that it will be signed by the President. Mr. Coolidge has said that he favors government help to cooperative marketing associations as the solution of the agricultural problem. He cannot veto this bill without virtually admitting that such financial assistance will not, of itself, prove adequate.

The report of the federal reserve board which has just been made public ought to provide ammunition for the friends of farm relief in congress. This report frankly states that the enormous resources of the reserve system have been used in recent months to stabilize credit conditions abroad. The United States, it is explained, has half of the world's supply of gold and has used it to create prosperity in foreign lands, thereby placing them in a position to buy our goods.

To which the farmers are entitled to reply, "Why not us?" The prosperity of foreign lands may, in time, improve the market for American goods, but an addition to the buying power of the American farmers is certain to do so at once. The statement of the enormous resources of the reserve system can leave no doubt of the ability of the country to establish the business of farmers on a parity with other American businesses.

THE FLOOD CONTROL BILL.

The senate by unanimous vote has passed the Jones bill authorizing a $25 million dollar program of flood control in the lower Mississippi valley. The action of the house at this writing is still in doubt. As chairman of its flood control committee, Representative Reid of Illinois has reported out his own bill, which contemplates an expenditure of $75 million dollars.

The bills differ in principle as well as in the amounts appropriated. Mr. Reid's bill states the broad proposition that flood control is the concern exclusively of the federal government; the persons immediately benefited, in his plan, are required to pay nothing for what they receive. The Jones bill holds to the proposition that the regions benefited should pay a proportion of the cost. The federal government is to foot the entire bill so far as the Mississippi is concerned from now on, but to maintain the principle of local contribution, the regions benefited are to be credited with whatever they have spent thus far in the construction of levees and other means of holding the waters in check. The Jones bill thus recognizes the importance of local assessments in preventing raids on the treasury, a point which President Coolidge insisted upon in his flood control message, and which Mr. Reid ignores.

The Jones bill adopts the plan of flood control drawn up by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin with the endorsement of President Coolidge, while the Reid bill creates a new engineering board, which would be free to devise and carry out its own plans, and would not be dominated by war department engineers. There was a time some months ago when it seemed of the utmost importance to break the hold of the army engineers upon the Mississippi project. It was plain that their traditional policy of building levees to the exclusion of other works had not held the river in check, and there was reason to fear that the tradition would prevail in any new plans that might be devised under war department auspices. Gen. Jadwin's detailed proposals have quieted such fears. There is now no doubt that the army engineers have adopted a fresh approach. The Jadwin plan calls for the digging of new outlets to the gulf and auxiliary channels below Cairo as well as for levee construction. The policy of levees only has been abandoned.

The country will be inclined to follow the President and his cabinet in endorsing the Jadwin plan for the further reason that it is well advanced. The creation of a new engineering authority, unfamiliar with the details of the Mississippi problem, might delay while the new men are familiarizing themselves with the data and devising a plan which, in all probability, will differ only in detail from Gen. Jadwin's. Several years' time is likely to be lost by the new engineers; the gain, if any, will probably not be great enough to justify the delay.

MR. HARDING AND THE BAD NEWS.

County Treasurer George Harding protests that it is through no fault of his that the tax bills have not been mailed. He thinks The Tribune did him an injustice in a recent editorial which suggested that he had played some part in preventing the bad news from reaching the taxpayers before primary day. Mr. Harding says that he is mailing the bills just as rapidly as they can be made out and he will continue to do so. He says the delay has not been in his office, but in getting the tax books to his office.

Further inquiry leads to the belief that, as he says, Mr. Harding is not directly responsible for the delay. That the tax bills contain bad news and that the bad news, if known to the taxpayers voters, would injure the mayor's faction at the polls, are self-evident propositions. That the sending out of the bills has been delayed at one point or another is stated on every hand. Mr. Harding's disclaimer serves only to fasten the responsibility upon his political associates in the Thompson machine, the Thompson controlled board of assessors and board of review.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO IN THE MIRROR.
(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

If Chicago bows to the blow her honor as a community is gone and her slavery acknowledged. No where else in America has the inevitable relationship between petty politics and lawlessness been better illustrated in recent months. A community willing to endure the kind of administration that rules over Chicago must expect, whether willing or not, to endure the kind of underworld domination that finds logical expression in the bombing of a senator's home.

(Indianapolis News.)

New York in the Twentieth Century and Philadelphia under the domination of the gas ring are not to be overlooked in making comparisons. But murder and bombing were not commonplace. It was not found necessary to blow up and destroy opponents. It stands to reason that the gangs that are operating so notoriously in Chicago could not continue unless they were supported in high places.

(Beloit (Wis.) News.)

The irony of the situation is that the metropolis where bombs supplant ballots as a means of political expression is the city whose mountebank mayor has been attempting to instruct the rest of the nation in purer and nobler forms of Americanism.

Chicago's example of budding anarchy under Big Blah Thompson speaks more loudly than all his "America First" eloquence.

And it must have dawned even upon most Chicagoans a good while ago that these assassins who are machine-running and bombing all over the place are really not minions of King George.

(Buffalo Courier-Express.)

In connection with the news of the bombing of the Chicago home of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, it is learned that the senator was in Chicago on Monday to attend the funeral of Diamond Joe Hapgood. The alliance suggested is a bit shocking outside of Chicago, though there it appears to be accepted with pleased tolerance.

(Decatur Herald.)

"Diamond Joe" Hapgood's funeral Monday came up to expectations. France used to be famous for its political funerals. The custom has been transferred to Chicago. Paris may still have more magnificent rites, but Chicago has the more man in line.

OVER 80, BUT NOT YET ON THE SHELVE.

IN November, 1927, we began sending two booklets on old age to those who sent ten cents each and stamped, addressed envelope for them. One dealt with senility, and gave some simple methods of protecting the health and promoting the comfort of the old. The other dealt with senescence, and gave some simple directions for holding back the hands of time a wee bit, causing them to stutter, if the hands of time can be said to do such a thing.

Among the replies which were provoked by these booklets and the correspondence which grew out of them, we found much evidence that most women seventy years old and over do not propose to be laid away on the useless shelf. On the contrary, they are active physically and alert mentally. Many of them are leading useful, productive lives.

Here are a few quotations:

"I am 75 and expect to grow old before long. Blood pressure 140; heart action O. K.; other organs same; skin clear as a baby's."

"I am 75 and approaching old age under favored conditions. Have never had a serious sickness; sleep 8 hours like a child; habits regular; plenty of exercise and am just as capable as ever. I have thorough physical examination."

"I am 75 and active. I suppose, for my age. Drove my car from Chicago to Miami last winter and am quite young, at present, at least."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"TIS THE LAST DAY OF MARCH! Three rousing cheers. While it is already spring (as we may have mentioned before), still the presence of March is an irritating element. As long as March is hanging around there is a chance of accident in the weather, and a little snow and cold will occasionally creep in. However, March is departing to-night, and then comes bright, merry April with happy showers that bring the flowers, bright sunshine, and blue skies. Ah, 'tis spring, 'tis spring!"

THE CHOICE

"London bridge falling..."

Choose, which shall it be—

A watch set with diamonds—

A house of candy?

Serenity—peace—

Dull, virtuous, good?

The call of the trumpet—

The life in the wood?

Tug of war twisting,

Hearts seeking a clew—

And have it, too?

However—he reserves the privilege to be some very indignant when they throw his pet boot-lugger in jail.

You See, the Snow is Melting. 'Tis Spring! 'Tis Spring!

R. H. L. Say, what's the big idea? Huh! Ya tryin' to kid us? After readin' yer column this mornin' I steps outside the door of my adobe (with a spring coat on and whistlin' my own composition), when I gets flattened out at the bottom of a snow drift, which falls from the roof of my dwellin'. What's the big idea? Huh!

Dick: What this state needs is a third-term tradition for the office of governor.

WHILE WE'RE WAITING for some one to hurl the sixty-second tropical bromeliaceous plant for the year in our fair and fervid city, we notice that Mr. Grundy is to be called on the carpet to tell the senate Teapot Dome committee what he knows about the 1924 campaign funds. Maybe he's no relation to the Mrs. Grundy we used to hear so much about, but if he is, he'd have a good harder time explaining to her how he got mixed up in the scandal in the first place.

We'll Print Them All in the Line Tomorrow.

R. H. L.: On the first of March I did not send in a contribution. I doubted that on the second day of the month I would find my previous contribution. The month is up today. You must, therefore, publish my contributions.

Doc Brawley told us to keep them off the other one) before writing this paragraph, it's because of our childish disappointment. Lloyd's are the boys who've stood steady for years to bet we wouldn't have twins, triplets, or children, that it wouldn't rain on any day we didn't want it to, or that the mushrooms weren't too small. Or anything else. But now that grand old insurance house has decided there's a limit to even their sporting instinct, and nonstop ocean voyages are off. So we're off 'em, too. We're willing to take chances on anything that Lloyd's will bet we're not going 'em one better, and that's that.

War!

R.H.L.: It was at one of those jazz palaces where the orchestra gives a pretty fair imitation of the battle of the Marne, or, at least, the siege of Gettysburg. It was right after intermission, and as the music struck up a particularly wild tempo, the saxophones shrieking and the trap drums pounding, he asked her, "Shall we dance?" She turned her eyes toward the crashing orchestra and replied calmly: "No, let's just fight this one out right here."

Dick: ... But what I wanted to say is this: Bill—his only 8, is following in his mother's footsteps. He has just recovered from the mumps, and being confined with them, he had opportunity to watch his lady friend (aged 5) from our front window. Said lady friend was consoling herself nobly during his illness with a little neighbor boy named Jack. So Bill, disconsolate, waxes poetic as follows:

She has a case on him.
She has a case on me.
But why she has a case on a universal sentiment? Anyhow, he insisted on trying to make the line with it.

THE SPEED OF TRAINS.

Chicago, March 29.—That is a very cheerful and carefree view your correspondent, Mr. Abraham Eller, takes of "20 miles an hour" speed, at which passengers are dragged from Chicago "to the northwest or to either San Francisco or Los Angeles," where in fact the through trains making at least 25 stops en route make an average of 31 miles an hour and have to develop 60 miles an hour between stations to be sure of doing that. If Mr. Eller would take the trouble to glance over the time table of any of the transcontinental lines he would see that the speed of any one train has to be synchronized with that of scores of other trains and that the sidings of the main lines are choked with freight trains waiting for the limited, express and mail trains to pass.

The dispatching of trains to keep the traffic moving at a moderate pace is a most intricate and highly specialized feature of railway operation. It cannot be adjusted to the whims or necessities of the Smiths and Jones and Eilers who want "one night out from the trip to Oregon," irrespective of the fact that the social order depends more on fast freight than expedited passenger traffic.

In reckoning the speed of transcontinental trains note should be made of the two mountain ranges between Chicago and the Pacific coast on the shortest route. The Union Pacific crosses the great divide at an elevation of 8,013 feet, from which it descends to 4,395 feet at Ogden, only to climb again to 7,013 feet at Summit in the Sierras. Speedsters like Mr. Eller seem to forget that there are other passengers on these transcontinental trains who are out to enjoy the comforts and scenery of the trip, which is not possible taking the twists and grades necessary to get through the Rockies and Sierras at forty or fifty miles an hour. Mr. Eller should remember that train speed has to be regulated to the best advantage of all, and not the special demands of each individual. He quarrels with the agreement of companies to make competitive rates, forgetting that it was the cut throat competition that forced those agreements as the alternative to bankruptcy. The interstate commerce commission attends to such matters now.

THE WHITE SOX.

Chicago, March 27.—Our beloved White Sox seem to be taking it on the chin. If they are unable to beat bush league teams what will happen when they meet the Yankees and Athletics? It looks like a lean season out at Comiskey park. Why don't the Sox owners face the facts and trade off their dissatisfied athletes? At least five members of the south side squad should be disposed of in a hurry if the team is to get anywhere in the pennant race. There is no great mystery attached to the players' identity, and their transfer would be beneficial to themselves and the club as well.

A CALL FOR ORGANIZATION.

Chicago, March 28.—In days of old not so very many years distant—when a regular machinery of law was not available, honest men protected themselves against the crookedness of others by combining with other honest men and forming "vigilance committees." It appears to me that an organization of that kind could serve Chicago very well indeed, the presence and circumstances of crooked politics, bomb throwings, rum running, vote stealing, gambling, et cetera. One wonders why the population of our city has permitted things to go on as long as they have, without taking any measures but those already predestined to futility, in order to correct conditions.

Is it not possible to gather together enough prominent and influential citizens to form an organization the avowed purpose of which would be actively to put an end to the conditions

CHEER SWANSON, BOO CROWE AS 2 ADDRESS WOMEN

300 Hear Rival Candidates on Same Platform.

Three hundred members of the Women's Roosevelt Republican club yesterday heard speeches from Robert E. Crowe and Judge John A. Swanson, candidates for state's attorney. The two were invited guests at a luncheon of the club in the Congress hotel. Crowe's speech before he had talked two minutes. Laughter greeted his assertion that Milwaukee was more crime ridden than Chicago.

Judge Swanson entered the room while the state's attorney was speaking. As soon as he was recognized, the women cheered, stamped their feet and rattled spoons and dishes in a three minute demonstration.

In his speech Mr. Crowe referred to his endorsement by the Committee of Fifteen.

Mr. Crowe Makes an Error.

$2,000,000 DROP IN INCOME TAX RECEIPTS FROM 1927 IS SHOWN

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—For the first time since March 15, when the first installments of tax payments were made on last year's incomes, receipts from the income tax reported today showed a decrease under the corresponding period of last year.

The treasury reported that on March 28 receipts from the income tax totaled $502,204,314, compared with $504,614,145 for the same period last year.

partial and fair," he declared. "Why, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen here (turning to Mrs. Bowen seated at his side) is one of the members of the committee."

"I am not," declared Mrs. Bowen. This remark provoked a wave of cheering and boos which Mrs. Harry Hart, the chairwoman, was unable to quell for several moments.

"I beg your pardon, Mrs. Bowen," said Mr. Crowe. "I knew you had been a member."

"I resigned," she responded, "because I discovered certain things going on that I could not stand." Another long cheer followed this remark.

Attacks Deneen's Record.

The speaker then began an attack upon Senator Deneen.

"When Deneen was state's attorney there was a red light district with unspeakable conditions," said Mr. Crowe. "He never lifted a finger against those conditions. There was open gambling in Chicago. There was vice tracks. Conditions now are not to be compared to that time."

As Mr. Crowe was leaving the room, Judge Swanson was introduced. "Running for office in this town has got to be a dangerous game," he declared. "I had thought previously that I could criticize my opponent's record without being in danger of my life. But I find that such criticism has endangered not only myself but my family and my property."

"Power of Machines."

"Last Monday night my home was bombed and buildings 400 feet away were damaged. I was immediately accused of blowing up my own home to get votes. I wonder what is the character of the mind that could make such an accusation."

"My wife has received threats but she is as unafraid as I am. She is with me and I am more determined than ever that I will be the next state's attorney of Cook county."

"I have just heard my opponent read a list of judges, Democratic and Republican, who have endorsed him. Those judges have taken that action because they were afraid of losing their jobs. It shows the extent to which the powerful political machine against me has gone in an effort to win a losing fight."

"He has quoted statistics to show that crime has been reduced in Chicago. I say that crime is unlesioned in Chicago. Throughout the world the finger of horror is pointed at us as a place where every one's life is in danger."

DEBATE POWERS OF CONGRESS IN COAL INQUIRY

Right to Demand Cost of Production Denied.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—The senate's coal inquiry was halted today while the power of congress to inquire into production costs of the West Virginia operators was challenged by their attorneys and defended by attorneys for the United Mine Workers of America.

This question, the same as that invoked by Harry Sinclair and Col. Robert W. Stewart, and which is pending in several court actions growing out of the Teapot Dome investigation, was left in the air by adjournment until a week from Monday because of impending farm legislation.

Many witnesses remain whose appearance depends on this decision. If the committee decides after the arguments to press these questions the witnesses will take the case to court by the contempt route. This might take a year or two to get a decision, and in the meantime the condition in the coal fields will go from bad to worse.

May Not Enforce Answers.

The committee, however, may decide not to press the point, get answers to such questions as will be willingly responded to, and try to work out a recommendation for legislation on available facts.

The production costs in West Virginia, of course, enter largely into the vital factor of wages. It is upon the basis of the wage paid in these southern nonunion fields that the whole

'LIFE FOR A PINT' CASE NOW A BATTLE ROYAL; MICHIGAN JUMPS IN

Lansing, Mich., March 30.—[Special.]—Defense of Michigan's new criminal code, attacked in the Supreme court by Fred Palm, the Lansing man sentenced to life imprisonment for possessing a pint of gin, will be undertaken by the attorney general's department in cooperation with the Ingham county prosecutor, it was announced today.

Liberal forces throughout the country are backing his appeal. The case probably will come up before the supreme tribunal at the June term.

northern field is being thrown into turmoil. It is directly back of the situation in Illinois today.

"Are you, the representatives of the power of this government, to be stopped at the West Virginia line as the United Mine Workers have been stopped?" asked Attorney Henry Warren of Indianapolis, who made the argument for the union today.

Adjournment Interrupts Pleas.

A. O. Stanley, former United States senator from Kentucky, started his argument for the operators, but was interrupted by the adjournment. Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.], chairman of the committee, asked him if the interstate commerce commission would not have power to compel answers to questions of railroad sales.

"Yes, from the railroads, but not from us," was the reply.

Court Clerk, Burned While

Sleeping, Reported Better

John H. Passmore, clerk of the Criminal court, who was severely burned Thursday night when the bed clothing caught fire while he was asleep in his apartment at 4723 Drexel boulevard, was reported to be recovering last night at the Chicago hospital. The fire started when the drape in the room was blown against the electric heater.

RESULT IN DOUBT AS MINE PAY PACT EXPIRES TONIGHT

Differences of opinion developed yesterday between contending factions in the Illinois coal industry as to the probable results of a decision by the operators' association to cease dicker over wage scales with the miners' union.

Present contracts, based on the Jacksonville scale, which the operators declare they can no longer pay, but which the union says they must pay, expire tonight. Authority extended by the owners' organization for any member to sign up with the union as an individual is the point which renders uncertain the immediate future of the state's mining activities, observers point out.

Sees Complete Shutdown.

W. J. Jenkins, president of the operators' association, set the example of defiance to the union on Thursday by ordering the closing of his consolidated coal company mines at Johnston City and Herrin. And yesterday Mr. Jenkins declared that few of the state's 400 coal pits will be in operation Monday, with prospects that these few will not remain open for long.

But Harry Fishwick, head of the Illinois division of the Mine Workers, was more optimistic.

"I am informed twelve mines will continue under the Jacksonville scales in the Belleville district and many more over the state will not shut down," he said.

"Far From Shutdown."

Harry Madden of Benton, member of the union executive board, declared that a number of the big mines in Franklin county are installing first class machinery and new timbers.

"We're far from a complete shutdown," he added.
Dr. P. C. Honold, a leading operator, said time alone could tell the effect of the operators' ultimatum, and that any estimates at this time would be unreliable. A recent survey showed that a total of 177 mines out of the state's 400 are operating under individual agreements.

Dog Keeps Vigil Over Bodies of Auto Victims

Faithful even after death, a spaniel early yesterday stood sentinel for hours while falling snow covered the bodies of his two playmates, a collie and a spitz, which had been run down and killed on 32nd street near South Parkway by an automobile. A woman who noticed the dog standing in the gutter throughout the storm investigated and notified the Illinois Humane society, 1145 South Wabash avenue. Not until the arrival of Alfred Cipriani, veterinary, did the spaniel relax his vigil.

BOY, 9, KILLED BY TRUCK AS HE PLAYS IN ALLEY

Four Other Deaths Raise
County Toll to 225.

While playing in an alley in the rear of his home at 3541 North Marshall street, 9-year-old John Hutton was struck by an automobile truck yesterday afternoon. He was hurled to the Ravenswood hospital, where he died of a fractured skull. Police held August Muehlecker, 1847 Cornelia avenue, the truck driver, who said the accident was unavoidable.

Four other deaths as a result of automobile accidents increased the 1928 motor toll in Cook county to 225. The dead:

Pearl Hines, 39 years old, 4213 Carroll avenue. Struck by an automobile on March 20 at Homan avenue and Arlington street. Edgar Pettie, 27, of 4188 Washington boulevard, the driver, said Hines walked against the side of the automobile.

AN ULTRA MODERN GROUP

The conventionality of calla lilies lends them as perfect foils for this ultra modern group. The graceful urn is of black luster, matching the black lacquer blocks of wood upon which the whole rests. Amusing and in keeping with the spirit of the whole are the two little everlasting plants in new shaped pots at the sides.

COMMITTEE OF HOUSE DIVIDED OVER FLOOD BILL

Three Different Plans; May Act Today.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—Members of the house flood control committee were divided in three groups today, as they considered the Mississippi flood protection bill passed by the senate.

One group favored substituting the $225,000,000 senate bill for the $472,000,000 Reid bill already reported by the house committee.

Reid Bill Has Friends. Another group stood pat for the Reid bill, which establishes the principle of complete federal responsibility for flood protection and creates a new commission with broad powers to select whatever engineering plan it may desire.

This group was not altogether pleased with the senate bill declaration for local contribution and objected to the adoption of the Jadin plan as the basis for flood control and continuance of the Mississippi river commission and army engineers in charge of the work.

A third group, consisting of those who signed the minority report to the Reid bill, opposed both the senate bill and the Reid bill and insisted that provision should be made for an economic commission as proposed by President Coolidge.

Will Try Again Today. The committee held a lengthy executive session, but came to no conclusion. Another meeting will be held tomorrow at which action probably will be taken either accepting major features of the senate bill or else substituting the Reid bill for it.

The minority of the flood committee, consisting of six of the thirteen republican members, intends to make a fight on the floor for the President's economic commission to deal with the question of local contributions.

Modern Art Hates Curves, Loves Angles

Decorations Are Cubist in Motif.

BY SALLY LUNN.

As one contemplates the angularity of modernistic decoration, despair seeps into the soul of one who has had delight in the symmetry of curves, the sweep of graceful lines, the turn of a Queen Anne leg or a Duncan Phyfe underpinning. Beyond the shadow of a doubt, this quaint, old fashioned generation will have to be educated to see the elements of grace which must abound to a large extent in the new "robot" decorative ideas which are being developed with rapidly typical of the age in which we are living.

To avoid asymmetry there must be a whole hearted swallowing of the modernistic plan; no half way measures, no regretful of the rather startling whole. We must adapt ourselves to a totally different attitude of mind. Machinery, which has become a part of our lives, [witless] the cigarette lighters, electric oranges and countless other sloth makers (if time savers) has gone a step further and has provided the craftsmen who are responsible for the decorative arts with an awareness of machinery as a source of design from which valuable themes may be developed.

Taking It Gradually.

For those who wish to touch this dangerous art with a skittish finger, or those who have the desire to try a sample out, there are some compromises which may make the change from graceful curve to angular grace a bit less painful. Modernist glassware, for instance, seems to have scorned the triangular and thus may be used as an ice breaker. Some of the most amusing is in squat shapes, with short thick stems.

Cups with solid handles, china of silver gray tone, tablecloths which have cubist patterns, though clinging still to the conventional fabrics, are straws in the wind which show, to be sure, what we are coming to, but which after all are palatable and can be used as the center motif in table decoration; giving a flavor of the ultra modern without casting out entirely the good and valuable to which we adhere as we do to all ideals when new ones threaten.

And Now, Metal Poses.

As yet the modernists have not evolved any geometric floral decorations which are comparable or exceed in beauty the natural flora and fauna. It is true, one sees nowadays not only pots of metal, but pots filled with metal and metal poses! It is no strain of imagination for instance, to picture real beauty in a square pot of tin filled with sword plants of the same metal all unpainted; with two smaller pots of like design holding tin meadow flowers. This charming and highly modern set was shown in a Michigan avenue shop this week, and evoked several orders. The danger in this type of decoration lies in imitation, and in the tendency, when producing cheaper merchandise, to lean toward the rococo. This art, unless in the hands of a master craftsman, can be used with fatal results.

STOWAWAY A BRIDE; HUSBAND ON SHIP AS 3D CLASS PASSENGER

New York, March 30.—(Special.)—At mid-ocean today, Miss Mary Ellen Vorse, the daughter of Mary Hutton Vorse, the novelist, was found as a stowaway on board the steamship Deutschland, according to radio advice received by the New York offices of the Hamburg-American line. Immediately on her discovery she was claimed as his bride by John Hewlett, a tourist third class passenger on board the vessel. Hewlett was on the staff of a New York paper up to the time of his departure at midnight of Tuesday last for a trip in Europe. They were married by the captain of the ship.

The wireless message to the steamship offices was brief, making no mention of the time and place of the couple's marriage. The captain of the vessel reported that Hewlett has promised to pay his bride's passage money for a part last year. The Deutschland took her departure from Sandy Hook Light at about 2 a. m. on Wednesday last for Hamburg via the channel ports. Miss Vorse played a part last year with the Provincetown players. Hewlett is the son of R. D. Hewlett of Conyers, Ga. He is said to be a banker, lawyer and plantation owner.

ter craftsman, can be used with fatal results. What can be done with natural flowers in combination with modernistic decorative objects is shown in today's illustration. A young florist on the north side, who has made a study of modern design, has achieved a perfect combination of real and machine turned beauty. The group of wooden blocks, which would make a stunning foundation for a side table or buffet decoration, are lacquered black, with silvered top surfaces. The central scheme is a black glass urn filled with calla lilies, while the supplementary pieces are French pottery filled with sedum, or house oak as it is popularly known, and cactus.

AMENDS BILL TO GET EARLY BARGE LINE UP ILLINOIS

Hull Asks 15 Million for Extensions.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—Authorization for the extension of government barge service to the Illinois river, the Illinois waterway, the Hennepin canal and the Missouri river as soon as the secretary of war deems such operation advisable is included in an amendment to the Deen-Denison barge line expansion bill introduced in the senate today.

The amendment, offered by Senator Shipstead (Farm-Labor, Minn.), is designed to expedite the extension of the government barge service to the principal Mississippi tributaries as soon as adequate channels are provided. As now written the Deen-Denison bill authorizes an increase of $10,000,000 in the capital stock of the Inland Waterways corporation.

Representative William E. Hull of Illinois today advised the house interstate commerce committee to add $5,000,000 to the Deen-Denison bill. He pointed out that $4,000,000 would be needed for the Twin Cities traffic, $10,000,000 for other sections of the Mississippi and the Missouri, and a large part of the balance for the Illinois river.

Picturing Peoria, Ill., as the natural gateway between the east and the west, Mr. Hull urged the committee today to approve legislation which will make possible the immediate use of government barge facilities on the Illinois river and the Hennepin canal. He asserted that freight brought by the barge lines from the Twin Cities and from other points on the Mississippi could be distributed via Peoria to every central western state.

PRINTED ON GUN TOTTING CHARGE.

Keep Suez, Panama Canals Open in War, Says Spectator

(Chicago Tribune From Service.) LONDON, March 30.—The Spectator, in tomorrow's issue, proposes an agreement between Great Britain and the United States to keep the sea lanes of communication open in war as a great step toward making possible the reduction of naval armaments. The first step the Spectator suggests is that Great Britain guarantee to keep the Suez canal open at all times to world commerce, and for the United States to offer a similar guarantee with regard to the Panama canal.

Whenever a customer whose trade I don't want to lose asks me which is the best malt to buy, I say: "Budweiser."

Of course, I can't give any premiums with Bud or any cans free for a few labels. There's too much real quality in the product for that. BUT . . .

Vegetables "in Season" Year Around

Markets Are Full of Fresh Greens.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

I first make bold and introduce myself to readers of this department. I'm the vegetable man. My "biled greens and pot licker" were will be sold from the printers' galley every Saturday.

Today and on almost every other day in the year my cart will be loaded with many kinds of fresh and stored vegetables. The old saying, "fresh vegetables in season" has given way to "fresh vegetables the year 'round."

Finding fresh vegetables in mid-winter in northern cities a few years ago was like hunting for a needle in a haystack. This morning, green growers and vegetable vendors in all sections of the city and surrounding suburbs have their counters and carts covered with from fifteen to twenty different kinds of fresh vegetables and half as many other varieties brought out of storage. The same number of vegetables can be found in winter, spring, summer or fall here and in other northern consuming centers.

Shipped from the South.

When the truck patches around Chicago are blanketed with snow or the ground is frozen hard, vegetable growers in Texas, Florida, Mexico and California are busy in their gardens. Practically every kind of green found in a Chicago garden during the growing season is being shipped here daily by winter from southern and western growing sections.

In Chicago today there are cabbage, spinach tops, new white potatoes, and red ripe tomatoes from Texas. On the same stand there are Florida grown celery, green beans, green onions, green pepper pods, and red ripe tomatoes from Texas. On the same stand there are Florida grown celery, green beans, green onions, green pepper pods, and red ripe tomatoes from Texas.

Fresh from the Greenhouse.

Winter gardeners grow several crops in greenhouses near Chicago, including radishes, parsley, and mushrooms. Fresh vegetables are supplemented by each old standby stored crops as white potatoes, sweet potatoes, parsnips, cabbages, egg plant, dried onions and dried beans.

Beating cars in the shuck and parsnips tips are about the only two crops from the average gardener's list that cannot be supplied practically every day in the year. Both of these are available early and late and are of the menu only a short time during the winter.

Hearty Breakfast Makes for Greater Efficiency

What is your efficiency curve? There are curves and curves—that is, the curves and curves that come from the pitcher's box, as well as the curves of spring to the up-jumping grandstands.

The curves, not so welcome, that are dieting a popular game. The curves that the fashion magazines are always threatening to reveal.

"But," say the business men, editors, physicians and diet experts, the curve that fills the heart with sunshine—and, incidentally, the pockets with ducats—is the curve of efficiency.

Business men are interested in the efficiency curve because they plan their most important conferences and all their organization upon it. Educators were among the first to recognize it, because all school schedules are based upon the principle.

Physicians contribute greatly to the study of the subject because it is related to the law of energy and fatigue. Diet experts are teaching the world its meaning, because the matter is important in the study of diet and fatigue. Numerous tests have shown that the efficiency of the worker or student varies with the time of day.

These tests (reference, Princeton University) have shown almost conclusively that in the first hours of the morning there is a gradual increase in the work accomplished by the student, industrial worker or school child. This continues through the first hour or two, and then the curve of achievement is gradually lowered throughout the remainder of the working spell.

The afternoon curve never rises as high as the morning curve, due to the fact that the worker is only given one hour to restore the energy expended during the morning, whereas the morning he has had supposedly eight hours' rest to prepare for the morning's work.

Temporarily crisp golden brown and choc-full of spicy goodness. The most delicious you ever ate. And all the family enjoys this zesty flavor in croquettes. For this is the sauce for scientific flavoring—that takes so much of the guess out of cooking.

Mix two cups diced vegetables with cream sauce. Add teaspoonful A-1 Sauce, salt and pepper. Moisten and fry in deep fat.

PAINTERS SIGN AGREEMENT FOR FIVE DAY WEEK

Introduction of the five day week among Chicago building trades became a reality yesterday with the signing of an agreement between the Employing Painters' association and the Painters' District Council, representing 15,000 members. The agreement is to become effective on Monday.

It was the second five day week pact to be signed in Chicago within two days. On Thursday employing plasterers and their employees agreed to work on a similar basis until expiration of their contracts on June 1, 1929, following a ninety day test which was said to have proved successful.

The plasterers' agreement must be ratified by the union next Tuesday, according to Thomas Dowling, president. Arthur W. Wallace, secretary and treasurer of the painters' organization, declared the five day week was chiefly of value among painters as a health measure. A test is in under way looking toward possible adoption of the five day week by the tilesetters and their helpers, it was said. Clothing workers are hopeful of introducing the system in their industry on May 1.

Night Fire in Basement Drives 175 Into Street

Dense smoke from a fire in the basement under a shoe store at 1408 North Clark street last evening forced 175 residents of the Schiller apartment hotel in the upper three floors of the building to the street. Spontaneous combustion in a pile of rubbish was blamed by Chief James Krappo of the 2d battalion. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

That's why good butter
makes children thrive and grow

Give your children plenty of good, pure butter—butter rich in the life-giving vitamins A and D—and they will grow faster, weigh more and offer greater resistance to rickets, anemia, colds and other childhood diseases.

Fortunately, Nature has captured and concentrated in good, pure butter a great fund of the precious health rays of sunshine. As a result, scientists tell us, good butter is rich in these vitamins A and D. As a further result, good butter enables your children to have these health substances at every meal.

In Blue Valley Butter these life-giving elements are abundantly found. For in making Blue Valley every scientific precaution has been taken to retain all the vital health factors.

Years of scientific work by Professor Otto F. Hunziker, in the famous Blue Valley Research Laboratories, together with careful selection and thorough pasteurization of all cream, account for Blue Valley's delightful flavor and pronounced health qualities. Sold only in triple-wrapped packages.

MUNDELEIN BACK IN U. S. AFTER TRIP TO VATICAN

Used to Bombings, He Tells Reporters.

New York, March 30.—(Special.)—Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago returned from Rome today on the liner Berengaria. He had visited the Vatican in connection with a loan of $1,000,000 which was floated in the Chicago archdiocese for the building of a new home for the propaganda college.

Cardinal Mundelein, when asked if he brought back any papal decorations for prominent personages in his archdiocese, smiled and replied: "Not this time."

Cardinal Mundelein was asked if he had heard of the issue of the matter of juvenile education which had arisen between Mussolini and the Vatican since his departure and replied: "That is all news to me."

"Pope in Fine Health."
Cardinal Mundelein declared he was most favorably impressed by the excellence of the pope's health.

"His holiness," he said, "has not a grey hair in his head in spite of the fact that he is more than 70 years old. He is in fine physical condition and appears to be twenty years younger than his actual age."

Commenting on a possible successor to Bishop Edward Hoban, formerly auxiliary bishop at Chicago and recently removed to Rockford, Ill., Cardinal Mundelein said:

"Used to Bombings."
"I expect the appointment of an auxiliary bishop very soon and submitted a list of names of priests from which the bishop might be chosen. That is for the holy father to decide."

Cardinal Mundelein was told of the recent election disorders in Chicago. He said: "The Chicago elections are like the old Irish elections in New York. It is just a period. As to bombings, well, we are used to that out there. It is nothing new."

Cardinal Mundelein looked in excellent health. Accompanying the cardinal were Rt. Rev. Monsignor B. J. Shiel and the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Herman Wolf.

The cardinal immediately departed for Chicago.

YOUTH GETS YEAR TO LIFE SENTENCE FOR CRIME SPURT

Charles Wilcox, 18, who claims to be the son of a former Chicago manufacturer, but who has been connected with a New York concern, was sentenced to the Pontiac reformatory yesterday for an indeterminate term of from one year to life after he entered a plea of guilty to one of the numerous robberies he committed. He started his career of banditry the night he arrived in Chicago on his way from his mother's home in San Francisco to visit his father in the east, he said.

"It is these out-of-towners who come into Chicago and commit crimes that give this city its reputation for crime," said Judge Stanley Karkowski in refusing an application for probation. "This boy has committed so many crimes in his short career that I will allow no leniency of any kind in his case."

Notes from Travel Journal of Editor Cover Many Points

By Fanny Butcher.

Last Saturday was a great day in New York. The banks didn't close and the shops didn't lock their doors, but there was a terrific rush of readers to what the English call the book stalls. It was the day that the world was told who murdered the Greenes. Scribner's Magazine and the book itself were on sale simultaneously and every one who had been reading the serial and every one who hadn't read it because it was a serial but was eager to get at the newest Philo Vance mystery bought.

There was—honestly—more interest in the publication of the secret than in any mystery I have ever met. And that is because S. S. Van Dine's mystery stories are not mere mysteries but intellectually sound, and about at least one person—Philo Vance—who is a scholar and a gentleman.

The mystery of the author adds to the zest of the book, too. All sorts of rumors are current about him, that he, like Philo Vance, is something of an esthetic and a recluse, that Van Dine is not his real name and that no one has actually ever seen him, that he writes a forty thousand word outline of every mystery story he writes, matching and unmatching all of the clues as carefully as a scientist would make a chemical experiment, that he has one of the most impressive libraries of criminology in the United States, that he is the highest paid writer of mysteries in the world, that he could sign contracts for any number of books at staggering figures, but that he has made up his mind to write six in all and then stop, and then resume another form.

But this isn't a political travelogue. Boston is a little upset over a new publishing venture called the Crime Club. It is a subsidiary of the Doubleday-Doran combine and is to work like the Book of the Month club except that the subscriber deals only with his bookseller and not with the club's organization. Subscribers promise to buy a mystery or detective novel once a month, chosen by a committee which is called the jury of the Crime Club and is made up of Frances Noyes Hart, author of "The Bellamy Trial," John Kidd, president of the American Booksellers' association; William Rose Benet, of the Saturday Review of Literature; Arthur T. Vance, editor of the Pictorial Review, and Grant Overton. At the end of the year subscribers will be given a special volume on the history of crime as a bonus or whatever you want to call it. It seems that in Massachusetts there is a law against giving anything away, and the extra volume sticks in the Boston crop. It's a grand idea, isn't it, by the way? Devotees of mystery stories are all more than happy to have a good yarn recommended and all they have to do is leave an order with their bookseller to send when ready—simple as anything.

The editor of Youth's Companion, which is one of the rather extensive group of magazines controlled by the Atlantic Monthly directorate, Harford bowl Jr., has just written a novel about an advertising man—who chucked his work and went to England and wrote a play called "The Virgin Queen," the title of the book was mistaken for an undigested Shakespeare manuscript.

Last Tuesday was one of the most thoroughly delightful days in memory. I found myself actually on the very spot of earth where Thoreau walked, where Emerson wrote, where Longfellow thought he was writing, where the somewhat mad Bronson Alcott played with the idea of a Utopia in which animals should be neither worked nor eaten, where the somewhat overwritten tale of Paul Revere happened, you can't imagine the thrill of the real New England. And until you have a guide who is a scholar and a charming conversationalist like Bob Lincolnton of the Houghton Mifflin company you have never actually trodden those spots.

With his young assistant we started out on a literary pilgrimage. We saw Walden pond, which looked, you must confess, pretty much like every other little lake in captivity; we went over the very road that Emerson and Thoreau used when they made their pilgrimage to Boston, and only oceans of mud kept us from visiting Fruitlands, where Louisa May Alcott and her mother pleaded with their father to leave his wild experiment of trying to run a community where no animal life whatever was used, either to plow or to fertilize the fields, or to eat—even milk was taboo—and they lived on grain and everybody was sick. The only man in American history who was arrested because he wore a beard came to the rescue of the venture and, compromising on the use of animals attached to plows, he did make a permanent farm of Fruitlands, and died, leaving a tombstone—which he had had carved before his death—proclaiming his uniqueness in being a man who suffered for his beard.

Then we had dinner in the Wayside Inn, which Henry Ford had offered to its original quaintness and if there could be a nicer afternoon and evening in Boston, I am a willing candidate for it. And coming home I read an advance copy of Esther Forbes' new book, "A Mirror for Witches," and the New England spell lasted until the flaming chimneys of Gary frightened it all away.

Evangelina Adams, author of "Astrology," "The Bowl of Heaven" (her autobiography), is one of the best known women in New York. She is a descendant of the famous Adams family and she says that one of the greatest contributions the family has made to the world is the legalizing of astrology (for she was arrested once as a fortune teller and when she was judge before whom she was tried gave her the date of the birth of "some one" as a trial of the veracity of astrology, she gave such an accurate picture of the person, who was the judge's son, though she didn't know it, that she was released instantly.)

Secretary Mellon is said to be one of her constant consultants, and "Roxey" when he asked about his first program and she told him that he needed worry about it for some time because his theater wouldn't be finished for months after he expected it (despite contracts, and forfeitures, and whatever). I had heard rumors that she had prophesied that Coolidge would be the next President, but all that could get her to say when I asked her was that she didn't want to make any positive statement, but that if Coolidge were persuaded to run there was every reason to believe that he would be elected.

In Boston, where I stopped on my way home, there is much chuckling over the fact that Mr. Coolidge has a Yankee's way with words, and that he really has never said he wouldn't run.

William Rothenstein Drawings on View at Art Institute

One of the most interesting things that any one who likes books can do these days is to visit the print department of the Art Institute, where there are on exhibit drawings and lithographs by William Rothenstein, who has probably known intimately more writers than any other artist in England, unless Max Beerbohm be excepted; and that is hardly fair, because Max Beerbohm is himself an incomparable writer as well as a priceless caricaturist. Two volumes of the Rothenstein drawings have been published, but they were issued in rather de luxe editions and not many saw them.

Here they are, portraits in the conventional manner, looking as nearly like photographs as drawings can look, and therefore immediately recognizable by those who have known their authors by face if not by fact. There are three or four of Thomas Hardy at different ages, three of Max Beerbohm which are extremely amusing, because at first Beerbohm's head seems to be terribly too big for his body, and in the latest one of him he seems almost to have grown up to his head, the way a puppy grows up to its paws—which is exactly the way that Max Beerbohm has always caricatured himself.

One of the young H. G. Wells is a surprise, because you'd think Wells never looked like that. Galsworthy, too, was drawn as a much younger

The $2,800,000 estate of Mrs. Elizabeth Morris Genius, who died March 24, was left in trust for her husband, Richard Morris Genius, and two children, Richard Morris Jr., and Jeanette Morris, according to terms of the will filed yesterday.

Mrs. Genius was the daughter of Charles H. Morris, founder of Fairbanks, Morris & Co. She stipulated that the income from her estate should be divided equally between the two heirs.

TWO CHICAGOANS SHARE IN ESTATE OF WILLIAM KENT

Otto T. Langbein, Chicago real estate dealer, and Mrs. Jeanette Lloyd Jones, 700 Oakwood avenue, received bequests in the will of William Kent, ex-congressman and former Chicago business man, filed in San Francisco yesterday.

Mr. Kent died on March 13 at Kentfield, Cal.

Mr. Langbein, who lives at 5244 University avenue, receives $20,000 from the will. Mrs. Jones is given $6,000. Mrs. Kent, the widow, is to receive the income of half of the estate for life and the family residence at Kentfield. For the rest of the estate, a trust fund of $250,000 is established, the income of which is to be divided equally among the seven children, with additional trust funds of $150,000 each for the two daughters. The value of the estate is stated as "in excess of $1,000,000."

Mr. Kent was formerly connected with several banks and in California and Nebraska. Because he gave largely to public benevolences during his life, no public bequests were made in his will. He was a leading Chicago alderman 25 years ago.

GERMANS DELAY HOP FOR AMERICA UNTIL NEXT WEEK

BALDONNEL, March 30.—(AP)—Adverse weather in Ireland and over the Atlantic ruled Baron von Huevenfeld's hope to continue his flight from Berlin to Mitchell field, L. I., this week. The Junkers plane Bremen was unleashed today from its air field moorings, and with a full load of fuel and oil aboard was carefully rolled into the hangar. The flyers are not optimistic about starting before Monday.

Baron Huevenfeld yielded to the demands of the Irish and foreign press for particulars of his venture to the extent of issuing an "official communique."

"In view of the unfavorable weather of the last few days it has been impossible to start from Ireland for America," he said. "I declare, also, in the name of my comrades, Koehl and Spindler, that we will not allow our elaborately developed plans to be influenced by outside considerations and circumstances. We do not intend to make experiments which will waste in vain the calmness the development of weather conditions until a favorable period comes to us."

OLSON AROUSED; SAYS LIES ARE TOLD OF JUDGES

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Michigan court, yesterday threatened to question "certain lawyers" if "loose stories going the rounds which reflect on the integrity of municipal judges are not discontinued."

"For weeks rumors attacking the character of this judge and that judge of this court have floated about," Judge Olson declared, directing his remarks toward the Municipal courts committee of the Chicago Bar association which was attending a municipal judges' conference in his chambers.

"I took it on myself to run down one of these stories, which had it that a bribe had been taken by a certain judge, and just as I thought, it was all just a pack of silly lies," he said. "I traced that story through about ten people and finally pinned down a young clerk in the office of a prominent lawyer. The clerk admitted the story had no foundation whatsoever."

RE BY MOTORCYCLE; DIES.

Mrs. Minnie Winder, 47, of 4032 Irving Park boulevard, died yesterday of injuries suffered on Feb. 27, when she was struck by a motorcyclist at Irving Park boulevard and Kirkland avenue. Walter Schmidt, 25, of 5449 Higgins road, was the cyclist.

SENATE PUTS O. K. ON ALL MEMBERS OF RADIO BOARD

Bosses Now May Work Unhindered.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(Special.)—After an all afternoon discussion in executive session, the senate today confirmed all pending nominations for members of the radio commission.

The fight centered chiefly on O. H. Caldwell of New York, who finally was confirmed by a vote of 36 to 35. His rejection had been confidently predicted by his critics, who accused him of favoring the big radio interests.

Senator Dill (Dem., Wash.) led the opposition.

The senate approved by a viva voce vote the nominations of Sam Pickard of Kansas and H. A. La Fount of Utah, who have been serving as members for some time, and Ira E. Robinson of West Virginia, whose appointment was transmitted to the senate by President Coolidge yesterday.

All Members Now Approved.

As a result of the action the radio commission is a complete body of seven members, the only one whose appointment had heretofore been confirmed.

Mr. Sykes was one of the original members of the commission. President Coolidge's selection of Mr. Robinson, recently a special assistant to the attorney general and a former chief justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia, for the chairmanship of the commission, vacant since the death of Admiral Bullard, apparently met with general approval and prompt confirmation resulted.

Terms Expire Next February.

Under the terms of the new legislation, the commission will expire in February, 1929. The new radio legislation requires the commission as nearly as possible to provide for equal distribution of stations, power, and wave lengths among the five zones.

Move to Give Annexed District Vote in Primary

A special meeting of the city council will be held Monday or Tuesday to take formal action making it legal for residents of Belmont Heights, a newly annexed area on the west side, to vote at the April 10 primary.

The action of the council will be to decide in which ward the area lies. It is adjacent to the 1st. The district comprises about 135 square miles and has a population of approximately 10,000.

HAYS IN FRANCE TO FIGHT CURB ON YANK FILMS

U. S. Producers Face Loss of Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] (Copyright, 1928, by The Chicago Tribune.) PARIS, March 30.—Will Hays, American movie czar, arrived in Paris today. He will attempt to induce the French government to go easy on its plan to curtail showings of American films to such an extent that American producers would lose millions of dollars a year.

The French, who are cagey when it comes to foreign interference with their legislation, are inclined to think he has come too late. The chamber of deputies already has voted and the president signed the measure instituting a commission empowered to censor films for any reason it wants.

The board will also establish a quota on foreign reels entering France on the basis of the number of French films bought by the country in question.

Backed by U. S. Embassy.

The commission, which has full powers, has not drafted principles on which it will act, and it is here that Mr. Hays expects to use his influence. He has the American embassy and commercial experts behind him, and he hopes to induce Minister of Public Instruction Herriot to hobble the commission.

It is reliably reported that the commission plans to demand that countries sending films to France shall buy one French film for every seven they show here.

HUNTRESS WHO SHOT HUSBAND DENIED BAIL; GLAD HE'LL RECOVER

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Esther Wilson, 47, prominent Washington society woman, Arctic explorer, big game hunter and wife of Dallett H. Wilson, 49, lawyer and advisory member of the Republican national committee, was held without bail for a hearing April 3, when arraigned today before Magistrate August W. Glitskyman on charges of felonious assault.

Mrs. Wilson, estranged from her husband eighteen months, shot him in the arm and back yesterday during a quarrel in his office on the fifteenth floor of a building in 5th avenue.

Sobbing and showing the effects of a foodless and sleepless night, Mrs. Wilson stood mute before the magistrate as her counsel put a plea of not guilty. To detectives, however, she said she shot her husband because "he had been running around with other women and had been unfair in money matters."

While being taken from court to prison Mrs. Wilson kept asking about her husband's condition. When informed he probably would recover, she burst out:

Friends of the Wilson family said it is unlikely he would prosecute his wife. They said Mrs. Wilson was suffering from a terrific mental strain when she shot him.

NAME RECEIVER FOR OLD TIME RIDING SCHOOL

Edwin D. Buell was named receiver for the Chicago Riding academy, 4724 Cottage Grove avenue, one of the city's oldest and best known indoor riding schools, yesterday after an involuntary petition in bankruptcy had been filed in behalf of creditors by Attorney Eli Kanter.

Twenty-six half-starved horses were listed as the only assets; the liabilities, $1,000. The liabilities may run as high as $20,000, according to Attorney Berger. William Grant, owner of the academy, is said to have left the place several days ago after selling a number of the better horses to the stockyards, according to the petition. The horses left were entirely without feed.

Grant brought the academy from Mrs. Margaret Dittmore, on whom it was settled by her husband, Glen Dittmore, in lieu of alimony, when she was granted a divorce. Mr. Dittmore had operated the school for several years, until his wife's suit, in which she charged the women he taught to ride interested him too much.

Indianola, Ia., March 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence Cochran Bradshaw, former Broadmoor district school teacher, was awarded $4,500 damages by a jury today against the members of the school board for slander.

In her suit Mrs. Bradshaw alleged her reputation had been damaged because of her dismissal by the board under charges that she had told risqué stories to her pupils.

Notice of appeal to the Iowa Supreme court was filed by the defense.

'Butterfly,' in English, Simple, Moving Drama

*And Youthful Voices
Make It Memorable.*

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Madame Butterfly," the second piece in the list of the American Opera company, proved its case a little more definitely last night at the Studebaker than even "Faust" had been able to do. Again there was youth all over the stage, again there was the great art of simplicity of manner and the common sense preface that creates simplicity of manner. But "Madame Butterfly" lends itself considerably better to intimate treatment, and becomes more poignant thereby.

Curiously enough, it was discovered in this performance, almost for the first time, that the great melodist, Puccini, was not as kind to human voices as the great melodist, Gounod. Even in this intimate version, the

Also, one's attention was sometimes diverted by some of the wind players in the orchestra, who seemed not to have undergone sufficient thoughtful study to comprehend and reproduce

But if all the words and notes did not score a highly colorful, moving, and piteous music drama did. Cecile Sherman in the name part was immense, less because of her vocal gifts than because of the way she has learned to use them, her manner in the part, and the way that her performance with all the nonessentials cut out became vivid and true.

And for about the first time in a long period of going to this opera, Charles Hedley was able to create the belief that he really belonged to the American navy, and Allen Burt that he belonged to the American consular service. Also there was a splendid Suzuki in Helen Olheim and an equally good Goro in Patrick Kilkelly.

I should like to propose three cheers for the scenery. It was merely a house, the same house, for all three acts. No garden with every kind of flower in the world, all dusty; no foolish lightning bugs, nothing but a Japanese house. Each act began by Japanese house. Each act began by Goro or Suzuki opening the sliding screen entrance and ended by its being closed. The second act finale was not the figures of the two women and the baby, but their shadows on the screen, and it will be one of the vivid memories of the company.

Alfred Wallenstein's two cello solos with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon had something against each which was not his fault. The first, Hindemith's chamber music, for cello and ten solo instruments, was in too unfamiliar an idiom; the second, a concerto by Schoenberg, in too familiar a one. The second too familiar a one. Hindemith has written four movements of unbelievably difficult solo material, which is, however, alert and expressive, just the kind of music for a cellist like Mr. Wallenstein to play, and if he had been sufficiently skilled in the technic of composition to arrange his accompanying instruments in anything like a logical manner, his compositions

These were new pieces, as was Deems Taylor's "Jurgen," for orchestra. This is an orchestral work

This is an entertaining, well-written, melodious, and expressive work, which, however, fails to hit the high spots that Taylor reached when he wrote "Through the Looking Glass."

Lighthouse Aids Meet at Luncheon to Plan Big Party

BY THALIA

Things are really starting to pick up in the party line. On the 27th of April now are the Dartmouth Musical club's concert and dance at the Congress next Saturday night, the Lower North Community House Magic ball on Friday the 13th at the Casino, and the annual supper dance of the Lighthouse at the Drake on April 27.

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids luncheon yesterday at the Arts Club, about a week after the making of plans for the party. Miss Mary Gardner has been appointed general chairman, and Mrs. Charles H. Fargo is busy with the publicity. Which reminds me of how the fine art of publicity dispensing has been generally adopted now. Previously society editors were wont to tear their hair in frantic and vain efforts to elicit information, but now the persons engaged in giving benefit affairs realize the value of genteel advertising and are most delightfully cooperative.

Attending the luncheon yesterday were the officers of the club, Mrs. Stanley Morrill, Miss Mary Louise Patterson, Mrs. Dorsey Montgomery, Mrs. Warren Clarke, and Mrs. E. B. Young, as well as Mrs. Harlan Eldred, Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, Mrs. Taylor Strawn, Mrs. Tracy Buckingham, Mrs. Nell Davies, Mrs. Jay Whipple, Miss Jean Adams, Mrs. Charles Renshaw, Mrs. Albert Potter, and Miss Marjorie Janney. About 25 new members have been inducted into the Aids, and most of them are to be given jobs to help out over the supper dance.

And about the Dartmouth soirée, Dick Gunthorpe, who is helping with the arrangements, says that the 50 members of the club are traveling 1,000 miles, which makes the longest self-supporting college tour of them all. The boys are national ice club champions and are to go west as far as Denver. John F. Hall, Jr., of Evanston is the only Chicago man in the organization. The famous Dartmouth Barbary Coast orchestra is to play for the dancing after the supper in the Congress gold ballroom.

The reception committee includes Thomas Heneghe, Henry A. Haugan, Raymond J. Hurley, Henry Hilton, George Leach, Harold Foreman, Gene Markey, John R. Childs, and Everett T. Marsh.

The Alumnae Association of the Paulkner School for Girls announces a bridge tea for the benefit of Fellowship Settlement house on Tuesday, April 24, at the Hotel Shoreland. Miss Mary De Coning, president, is chairman of the arrangements, and her assistants include Mrs. Percival Gray, Mrs. Cornelius Reese, Miss Elizabeth Hale, Miss Sarah Carr, Miss Lucy Lamont, Mrs. Charles Mackey, Miss Helen McNair, Miss Lois Adair, Mrs. Harvey Page, Mrs. Bronson Peck is chairman of the Fellowship board of managers.

Mrs. Alister H. McCormick is giving a luncheon today at the McCormick residence at 691 Rush street for Miss Rebecca Stuckey, who has been the guest of Mrs. Charles Fargo of 17 East Division street for the last ten days in connection with the Field's spring fashion show in which a number of prominent young women, including Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Fargo, modeled. Miss Stuckey is departing tomorrow for Boston.

Miss Florence Noyes, daughter of the Ernest High School, 1233 North State street, gave a small dinner party last night.

The Roman club announces a buffet supper and informal concert by Sarah and Miss Elizabeth Morris tomorrow evening at 6:30 o'clock.

We may divulge two interesting birth announcements this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hill (Lodosa Sanborn) of 210 East Pearson street are being congratulated upon the birth of their second daughter yesterday morning at St. Luke's hospital, and the William A. P. Pullmans of Lake Forest are being congratulated on the arrival of a second son at the Presbyterian hospital, night before last. Mrs. Pullman is the former Miss Madeleine Childs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Childs. The boy is to be named for his grandfather, the late William Charles Pullman.

Young William Rufus Abbott Jr., and his bride, the former Barbara Cox, have returned from California, where their wedding took place a month or so ago, and are staying with Mrs. Abbott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Cox of 106 East Bellevue place.

Katherine Ann, the 4-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Kittelman of 1238 Dearborn parkway, and the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schultz Jr., are to be christened at the Fourth Presbyterian church on Easter Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John T. Montgomery of Evanston has gone to Miami, Fla., to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Meade, who are to return to Evanston in June. Mr. Montgomery plans to be back for Easter.

Col. and Mrs. W. H. G. Logan of 119 Lake Shore drive and their daughter, Miss Jean Logan, have returned from the east. Mrs. Logan and Miss Jean were at Virginia Hot Springs for the last month, and met Col. Logan in Washington for their return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr. of 1431 Astor street are in New York City for a short sojourn. They will return next week. Mr. and Mrs. John Payne Kellogg (Louise Mitchell) are also in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eiting of 900 North Michigan avenue are in New York. They will return for Easter. Chicagoans sojourning on the shore of the Gulf of Mexico include Mrs. Mitchell Polanabee of 39 East Schiller street and Mrs. Edward Walker.

Little Symphony to Give Strike Benefit Concert

The Little Symphony orchestra of Chicago, Moissaye Boguslawski, pianist, and Letitia Letta, soprano, will give a concert this evening in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium at Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street, to benefit the striking miners' relief fund. The concert will be given under the auspices of the Pennsylvania-Ohio miners' relief committee.

Prairie Club Hike.

A circle walk through the woods and along winding Thoreau creek in the neighborhood of Chicago Heights is the program for the Prairie Club's hike this afternoon. The hikers will leave the Dearborn station over the C. & E. I. railroad at 1:50 p. m. Miss Emma Doerscher and Miss A. Marion Davis, with Douglas V. Hopkins and Ross Preston, will be the leaders for the walk, to which the public is invited.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A Pie-Eyed Patron

Study the Profile if You'd Keep Your Face Beautiful

Many inspired phrases have been addressed to a woman's cheek. I don't mean husbandly outbursts when she gets to prying around too inquisitively. I mean the side of the face between eye and jawbone.

"Cool and soft as a rose leaf," "like cream colored silk stained with rose petals," are but several lyrical outbursts.

More than the color, however, we have in mind today the contour. Is there anything lovelier in the world than the cheek of a child or of a young girl just blossoming into womanhood? That exquisite curve of the cheek is permitted few women after they have attained their full majority.

But there comes in its place a substitute beauty that serves the mature one thoroughly well. Though that exquisitely rounded curve of girlhood may be lost in the limbo of other fresh young charms that never come again, it is not to be assumed that youth is doomed to disappear completely from the profile.

There are ways to retard the slackening of cheek, jaw and muscles thereof. And one helpful one is to use the mirror frequently for purely profile study. Photographers tell us we are all more or less double faced. One side of us is better than the other. And the front view of the face is not the only one that counts. The side view, there's a groove there that needn't be if the missing mold were replaced by some good bridge work.

And then again, we plead for the profile study in the interests of better makeup. You can't tell from the front of your face how skillfully you have applied that color. What you look like a well painted cheek from the front may appear, with a mirror in one's hand and an eye focused on the cheek, like a beacon on a hilltop. And make-up that stands apart from the skin is not clever makeup.

BRIDE

MRS. O. P. SMITH.

Mrs. Louise Waterman of 508 Deming place announces the marriage of her daughter, Marion Pauline, to O. P. Smith on March 24 at the Auditorium hotel. After May 1, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 6309 North Oakley avenue.

Bridge and Musical Will Aid Sorority Fund

The proceeds will go to the national chapter house to be established in Chicago. The chapters represented will be Omega of Rush conservatory, Gamma of the American conservatory, and Gamma Omicron alumni of the latter chapter. Mrs. Paul Edouard Bruster, honorary member of Theta chapter, will be one of the hostesses.

Rabbi Wise to Address Sunday Evening Club

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who has twice resigned as leader of the Zionist movement, the first time because orthodox Jews criticized his statement that Jesus was not a myth, but a man and a great religious leader, and the second time because of his explanation, will discuss the subject "Does Religion Help or Hurt Men?" before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall tomorrow. Dr. Albert W. Palmer, First Congregational church, Oak Park, will give an address at 7 o'clock. Elmer T. Stevens, vice president of the club, will preside.

Egypt Inspired the Cut of This Gown

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Some time last week I spoke of that crepe gold cloth which looks exactly like the gold paper with which we used to cover our wooden swords and make things for the Christmas tree. This is being used to some extent just now for both the evening wrap and the evening gown, and although it is spectacular enough to do without any trimming, a band or two of beads is often exceedingly effective.

The evening model adopted from a spring gown made by Germaine which we show today selects this crepe gold fabric for its basis and adds to this background bands of gold and turquoise beads. These form a design at the waist line echoed by the one finishing the V front of the corsage.

Also a band of these beads looped under the front of the skirt serves to draw attention to that very effective tablier front under the rever draperies of the skirt itself. We borrowed that rounded apron straight from the Egyptians, and alone would succeed in making this frock look altogether different.

An under bodice of turquoise colored chiffon matching the beads is revealed at the front and side in the deep V shows no touch of chiffon.

One of the newest effects in evening clothes are the very short knee length trunks which, often spangled to match the corsage, glint under the tulle draperies of Boulanger's creations. Poiret also uses some such divided effects, and the introduction of the bifurcated under garment in the walk, to which the public is invited, even some of the street clothes leads

The Bright Child Furnishes Problems to Thinking Parents

Ma Gladys Longington

The exceptionally bright child should set us thinking just as hard as the boy or girl who does not measure up to accepted mental standards. It is possible for his very brightness to be a handicap to him. Too soon he finds it out and is often overwhelmed with praise for—not what he does—but what he is.

He may excel in his studies and win approval all sides for the results he obtains, without any real gain to himself. He may have a mental agility or grasp which makes everything so easy to him that he does not gain what is more important than the subject matter of lessons—industry, self-control, concentration. He may never, through his school days, know what it means to work, and to achieve as a result of work.

And that last is an experience that it is our duty to see our children get. Some people reach years of maturity before they have it—this experience of working and seeing the work bear fruit.

If we give as much thought, then, to the unusually bright child as to the one we were thinking of yesterday, we realize that he should receive the very same treatment. The thing that should be stressed is not his achievement, but his effort. His achievement might be miles beyond the others, but his gulf in character less. He may accomplish everything so easily that it doesn't develop him as much as the lesser result of a harder working child.

Without any straining, of course, he should be required to work at the top of his bent. Instead of lazily resting on his oars he should be expected to put forth every reasonable effort to do his best. If any urge is needed, let it be, "Did you try your hardest?" Be judicious with your praise. Remember it is justly due.

And for the sake of your brilliant child as well as for the one whose mental plumage is more subdued, remember that a great man and a great woman did not shine at school. And remember, too, that there is more than one way of shining. There are many gifts—manual, literary, artistic, organizing, homely, and so on—and perhaps the greatest—that of being a good specimen of a human being.

Here's Why Older Women Sometimes Look So Unhappy

BY DORIS BLAKE

An interesting discussion took place the other day at a luncheon. It followed the comment made by a great woman, who did not shine at school. And remember, too, that there is more than one way of shining. There are many gifts—manual, literary, artistic, organizing, homely, and so on—and perhaps the greatest—that of being a good specimen of a human being.

"How rarely," said my table neighbor, "you see a mature woman with a face as happy as that."

The happy referred to was beaming. Not that forced luncheon or dinner or afternoon tea beams were on the faces of such occasions. The woman just looked happy.

"I am impressed with the faces of women you see in the streets or at the theater," continued my neighbor. "There are so many mean faces, hardened faces, intense faces but so few happy ones. Why is it in America, of all places, you see so little real happiness reflected in women's faces?"

The attempt to answer the query brought forth all manner of speculations: jealousy of others' possessions; grudges nursed against bungling husbands; defeated ambitions, social and personal; discontent with what one has and always wanting more. And so on, and so on.

Then one clear voice piped up with the probable answer. Self-absorption. "Men escape that look because they haven't the time to think of self from morning till night. They have safety valves for emotional escapes that women are denied. Besides, their emotional nature isn't like a woman's. The old system of bursting into tears should never have been abandoned. It released pent-up emotions. It washed the eyes clear for a better vision of one's self—and for the other fellow's point of view."

Nerve specialists constantly remind us that emotional instability, fears, obsessions, depression and cynicism are steadily on the increase. Their claim is that women are becoming more and more maladjusted. Emotional assets remain their fundamental need while they pursue intellectual assets, or unusual accomplishments.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend said she would call me at work the other night, but she never called. She also told me to call her the preceding evening, and she was out. What to do?"

WALTER.

There's really nothing for you to do, Walter. She avoided you on each occasion, showing her insincerity.

NEWFOUNDLAND GETS SENATE BID TO JOIN CANADA

Crown Colony Expected to Spurn Offer.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
OTTAWA, March 30.—The Canadian senate today voted what is in effect an overture to Britain's crown colony of Newfoundland to throw in her lot politically and economically with Canada. A resolution saying "Canada should consider in a friendly spirit any negotiations for union with Newfoundland" was passed. Newfoundland has not shown any inclination to link with Canada since 1866 and, despite the Canadian senate's offer, it is deemed extremely unlikely that there will be any negotiations.

Seeks New Anti-Smuggling Laws.
William Euler, customs minister, introduced a bill to parliament today designed to prevent rum smuggling operations in Canadian territorial waters. This and two other measures which deal with internal law enforcement are in furtherance of recommendations by the royal customs commission, which reported huge smuggling operations on both coasts and all along the border.

Scores British as Immigrants.
"The English won't work. They won't put their backs into it." William Black, director of colonization for the Canadian National railways, made this statement to the parliamentary immigration committee today. The committee was started because it was sitting for the purpose of devising ways and means of bringing in more Britons and keeping out continental Europeans. Black said he thought continental Europeans were better as new settlers. He inferred that the Englishmen had been spoiled for work by unemployment insurance, eight hour day, Saturday half holiday, and has lost their pioneering spirit.

Applications for Training Camps Double Last Year

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—Applications for admission to the citizens military training camps for the summer are more than double what they were at this date last year. War department statistics today showed 20,000 applications have been received as compared with 9,707 a year ago. The fourth corps area with headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., leads with 4,585 applications, while the second corps area with headquarters at New York had 3,807.

NAIVE RUM RUNNER LEISURELY SAILS INTO $400,000 DRY TRAP

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Idling through the harbor with a leisureliness that was calculated to allay all suspicion, the three masted schooner W. E. Litchfield, with none of the characteristic dinginess of the rum runner, took four days to sail from Sandy Hook to Yonkers, only to fall into a carefully laid trap of the customs officials last night.

The boat was towed down the river today and a careful check revealed 60,000 quarts of high grade rye whiskey, retailing at $150 a case, and valued wholesale at more than $400,000. The captain and crew of six were arrested.

The schooner arrived from Florida on Monday and anchored off Sandy Hook in plain sight of coast guard vessels and customs patrols. After two days there, her captain, confident that the naive candor of his tactics would leave no one suspecting her true character, set sail up the harbor.

St. Louis Pin Star Gets 705 to Lead A.B.C.

Kansas City, Mo., March 26.—[Special.]—Hank Summers, 22 year old St. Louis bowler, today took the lead in the single of the American Bowling congress tourney when he upset the pins for a 705 count. The young St. Louis star displaced Harry Schmitz of Chicago, who had led with 702. Summers hit the maples for marks of 201, 258, and 246, and deserves the lofty spot he now occupies. Needing a score of 243 in his final frame, Summers bent to his task and at the finish striking in the ninth frame and putting the ball in the pocket for three more strikes to pass Schmitz.

Last Games Strikes, Spares.

Summers, a teammate of Jimmy Smith of the E. A. Schaefer five, had two open frames in the initial game, a split, and an error. His last two games were nothing but spares and strikes. He managed to "bunch" the latter throughout the series. The youthful St. Louisan counted 556 in his doubles to collect an aggregate total of 1,914, landing in fifth place in the all-events. Jimmy Smith shot three consistent series, 626 in the five man, 626 in the doubles, and 629 in the singles to just miss landing a berth among the high ten leaders in the all-events. "Smitty's" 1,881 count, a 203 average, placed him in eleventh place.

Bowler Dies of Injuries.

Harry Orf, 28, who was injured Thursday with three other St. Louis bowlers when their automobile overturned near Sweet Springs, Mo., died today. The men were on their way to the American bowling congress.

Bartley & Sons

Actual photograph of Bartley's original English model, for which we paid $5.10s ($26.50)

Actual photograph of Regal reproduction for which we charge $6.60 in all Regal Stores

Style Authority

FOR centuries, London has been recognized as the authoritative source of men's style in dress—hats, clothes and shoes. That's why we went to London—and we went to Bartley & Sons because they are recognized as one of the best bespoke bootmakers in London.

Bartley & Sons have been making shoes for more than 100 years in the same spot (493 Oxford Street, London, W.). They have actually made shoes for three successive rulers of Great Britain, not to mention the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family.

We paid £5.10s ($26.50) for the original Bartley Brogue with "punched and notched" toe cap and trimmings, as Bartley describes his most popular model. The lasts are identical in both measurement and appearance, and the design is the same. It has a medium round toe with plenty of spring and swing in the last for Comfort and Style.

Bartley describes the Sole as an oak bark tanned "mid-dling substance," and that is what we used. The Upper Leather in Bartley's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal reproduction we are using the same identical tannage.

Now, what's the main difference? Bartley's shoes are all made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high-priced American shoes. In Bartley's shop only four or five men handle the shoe from the time it is cut until it is finished. In our factory about 150 different persons perform some operation on a Regal Shoe. BARTLEY AVERAGES THREE PAIRS A DAY—WE MAKE ABOUT THREE THOUSAND A DAY.

Bartley & Sons' letter reproduced above will show you that I ordered 36 pairs of this original shoe. This is because I wanted to put one of Bartley's original shoes in 72 Regal Stores and show the original and a Regal reproduction side by side. I thought the best way to convince you of the value of the Regal reproduction was to show you the Bartley original.

I think you will agree that we picked out a good one to copy, and I feel sure you'll also be convinced that we made a mighty good copy. It's only one of many reproductions that we are showing, but I know it's ONE you'll want to see.

BUCKNER MOST ACTIVE MAN IN WHITE SOX CAMP

Kept Busy Massaging as Patients Increase.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Shreveport, La., March 30.—William Buckner, White Sox massage wizard, was the most active individual in the Comiskey entourage today, the last scheduled day for the club until it reaches Chicago on April 10.

Buck had three new outstanding casualties as follows:
Red Faber, who is having some kind of new fangled miseries in his tummy.

Tommy Thomas, who has just discovered what it is to have an Achilles tendon.
Bill Barrett, who has a strained ligament somewhere here, but the doctor in addition, Dr. Buckner continued to be engaged in the care of Ed Walsh's collapsible knee, Cracker Schalk's lame arm, Bill Cissell's sore neck, and the place that George Redfern injured while practicing sliding.

Exceed Usual Quota of Patients.
These patients were over and above the usual quota of young men who each day habitually require the application of soothing lotions from Dr. Buckner's magic crucibles.
Tomorrow and Sunday the Sox will engage the Shreveport Sports, and at 7:30 o'clock Sunday will have seen the last of this northern Louisiana metropolis, which calls itself the pop city of America on automobile dodges and in all Association of Commerce literature.

No pitchers have been announced for the windup games here, but the dope still favors Ted Lyons to pitch the full course in one of them, and in the other Ted Blankenship or George Connelly probably will have an opportunity to show they have been grossly misrepresented in recent box scores.

Reward for Discrepancies.
The lineup will vary during the games on the way north, but on opening day probably will be as follows: Lyons, p; Crouse, catcher; Clancy, 1b; Ruffalo, 2b; Cissell, ss; Kamm, 3b; Moore, rf; Mettler, cf; Falk, lf.
If the foregoing guess is wrong in more than one position, we will present a slightly used baseball, autographed by Ed Walsh, to the first person who by long distance telephone brings the discrepancies to our attention.

Layton Beats Kieckhefer in Final Block; Wins Match

John Layton of Sedalia, Mo., who is entered in the national three cushion billiard tournament, defeated Augie Kieckhefer in the final of their five block match, 56 to 33, in 42 innings last night at Kieckhefer's. He had a total of 250 to Augie's 204. They have played 216 innings. Layton won the afternoon block, 56 to 44, in 46 innings. Kieckhefer is also entered in the coming tournament, which starts Monday at Recital hall.

City Prep Wrestlers Clash in Title Prelims Today

Preliminaries of the city public high school wrestling championships will be held today at Calumet and Crane high schools. Qualifiers in the two meets will clash at Crane in the final bouts next Saturday. By virtue of its victories in dual meets, Harrison, the 1927 champion, is conceded the best chance of winning this year's title.

College Track Giants Score 17 Runs in 5th to Wallop Chattanooga, 18-8

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 30.—(AP)—If the fifth inning had been left out, Chattanooga of the Southern association might have handed the New York Giants a trimming today. Exceedingly docile for four innings, McGraw's hirelings uncorked a batting spree in the fifth that ended only after 17 runners had crossed the plate. The final score was 18 to 8. Darkness halted the contest in the seventh.

Those seventeen runs came within one of tying the major league record for most runs scored in an inning. In 1883 the Chicago White Stockings of the old National league scored 18 times against Detroit in one frame. The New York Yankees set the modern league record of 14 against Washington in 1920.

College Track Winners Go to Olympic Trials

Announcement was made yesterday by Maj. John L. Griffith, a member of the committee in charge of the National Collegiate A. A. outdoor track and field championships which will be held on Soldiers' field, June 8 and 9, that the winners of the various events automatically will qualify for the final Olympic tryouts to be held in Boston the latter part of June.

This will be welcome news to the intercollegiate performers who were under the impression they would have to compete in the sectional A. A. U. tests. The A. A. U. will hold its tryouts in various parts of the country. Its qualifiers must meet the best of the colleges and universities can produce in the final tryouts in the Harvard stadium in June.

As was the case in other Olympic years, colleges and universities are expected to contribute the majority of athletes to the American track and field team. Some university athletes already have made such fine marks that their places are assured.

Aside from Maj. Griffith, the other members of the committee in charge of the National Collegiate meet in Chicago on June 8 and 9 are A. A. Stagg of Chicago, the chairman and Tom Jones, track and field coach at Wisconsin.

Pirates Send Morrison, Pitcher, to Montreal.
Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Pitcher John Morrison has been sent to the Montreal club of the International league by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss announced tonight.

B. B. R. Soccer Team Wins Five-on-a-Side Tourney.
The Boys Brotherhood Republic soccer team won the five-on-a-side indoor tournament last night by defeating the Canadians, 3 to 1, in the final match at the B. B. R. gymnasium. In the semi-final round played earlier in the evening the B. B. R. team defeated the Cermak Flashes, 3 to 1, while the Canadians eliminated Sunflower by the same score.

Michigan Tops Qualifiers in College Swim

Philadelphia, March 30.—(AP)—Michigan set the pace in the national intercollegiate individual swimming championships at the Pennsylvania pool tonight by qualifying nine men for the finals tomorrow night. Stanford university came next with five; Northwestern university had four; Dartmouth, 3; Brigham Young, 2; and Rutgers, Columbia, Williams, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, New York university and Springfield, 1 each.

Garnet Ault, Michigan quarter miler, lowered the 440 yard free style record to 5:20 4/10, clipping more than 3 seconds off the old national intercollegiate mark of O'Connor, Stanford. Bud Shields of Brigham Young university, who also qualified for the final, also lowered the 440 yard mark. His time was 5:22 6/10.

Bob Darnall, Michigan captain, after qualifying in the 50 yard free style, equalled the national intercollegiate 100 yards' record of 55 seconds flat. Breyer of Northwestern set the record three years ago.

Walter Colbath, Northwestern, national intercollegiate and Western conference fancy diving champion, made the highest score in his favorite event.

ARKANSAS HELD TO TWO HITS AS U. OF C. WINS, 8-2.
Fayetteville, Ark., March 30.—(Special)—While Zimmerman, bespectacled Maroon hurler, was holding the University of Arkansas Razorbacks to two hits, his teammates were pounding the ball for a 8 to 2 win in the first game of the season here today. Errors by the Arkansas infield aided the Chicagoans to cross the plate six times in the second inning.

Capt. Anderson accounted for three of the Maroons' tallies in the second inning when he hit a home run.

LOMSKI BEATS SEKYRA IN SLOW FIGHT IN N. Y.

New York, March 30.—(Special).—Some 12,500 customers paid $49.782 tonight to see one of those so-called whirlwind ten round battles between Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen assassin, and Joe Sekyra, the misnamed Dayton dynamiter. But the best they got for their investment was a lot of clinching and holding.

Lomski got the decision because he did most of the fighting. Sekyra did not choose to fight, but he did run at every given opportunity. It was a fight devoid of thrills.

COLLINS, HAMMER TO PLAY TITLE CUE GAME TODAY.

M. P. McClure of Pittsburgh won third place honors by handing Ray Fessenden of Madison, Wis., a 300 to 263 defeat in 40 innings. McClure reeled off 49 billiards for the high run.

Just Sane Business

We believe in the economic betterment of the workers and particularly in bettering working conditions of those who toil. This is our reason for individual steel lockers for employees, recreation rooms, shower baths, rest periods in the middle of the morning and afternoon, insurance policies and noonday meal for all employed.

These things are an investment in our business. We find that every dollar expended for such things is returned to us a hundredfold in increased production, better workmanship, elimination of waste and smaller turnover in labor.

(Chicago Tribune from Service.)

New York, March 30.—A fresh wave of buying swept over the stock market today and a long list of stocks shot skyward in another sensational advance. Trading was at a terrific pace and with the lid blown off, gains of 5 to 25 points were registered, almost 100 new highs reached and total sales of 4,447,600 shares, or less than 250,000 shares below the all time record established last Tuesday, recorded.

Radio again was the outstanding feature, but its uprush to 131 and its passing of General Motors—while the most violent in the present phase of the market, excited little more interest than did the spectacular advances of leaders as General Motors and General Electric.

Brokers' Loans the Factor.

Wall street offered only one explanation for the remarkable manner in which the general market resumed the rise. That was the unexpectedly small increase in brokers' loans announced the afternoon before. The rise in call money to five per cent was ignored.

It was an unimpaired broad market, numerous shares being dragged out of deep corners to be brought to life and actively traded in in huge volume. The stock market was in a euphoric state, and the rise in call money to five per cent was ignored.

Radio's closing price of 136 was the peak for the day and represented a net gain of 14 1/2 points. The short interest in this stock was punished severely. General Motors at its closing price of 112, which also was its high for the day, showed a net advance of 7 points in the last hour.

General Electric surged forward in the last hour and finished with a sensational uprush to close at 159, up 8 points from the previous close. In the last hour, the market was in a euphoric state, and the rise in call money to five per cent was ignored.

Steel Mills Slew Pace.

United States Steel followed along but at a slower pace than the other leaders. Steel touched a high of 149, then wavered slightly to close at 148 1/2 points. Advance Express was a fast stepper, finishing the day with a net advance of 11 1/2 points. Do Pont gained 1/2 point on the day.

So far as a group movement was concerned the copper held first place. Anaconda, Greene Cananea, Kennecott and Calumet and Arizona were up one to five points. Indiana Steel was taken up again with Hupp, Packard, Mack Trucks, and Willys Overland favorites.

In the rail group Alton showed a net gain of 1 1/2 points. Canadian Pacific was up 1/2 point and Texas Pacific had a fractional advance. New York Central closed at 176, up fractionally. Delaware and Hudson was up 1/4.

BALABAN & KATZ PRICE
PUSHED UP 4 POINTS
IN CHICAGO MARKET

Balaban & Katz featured trading in a strong and active Chicago stock market yesterday with the minority interests pushing the stock up 7 points to a high of 87 in the face of an offer which Paramount-Pamoun-Lasky was high, but making for the remaining third of the common stock. Paramount-Pamoun-Lasky purchased two-thirds of the outstanding stock several years ago at 80. The stock closed at 79, up 4 points on the day.

Zenth Radio advanced 3 points on announcement that the company closed out during a distributors conference in Chicago this week totaling $11,374,325 as compared with a total business amounting to $5,000,000 in 1926. McQuay-Norris also was up 3 points and Sears Roebuck recovered 2 1/2, while Pitts-Wintermont was up 2 points of 5 1/2.

Kalamazoo Steel sold 3 points higher and Custer Hammer Manufacturing and Marvel Carbide each gained 1 1/2. The Custer Hammer company made application to list its stock on the New York exchange. Galesburg-Coulter, Dick-Sheriff-Warner, Yellow Cab and Bann-Blaug were up 1 point each.

Sheffield Steel was about the only active issue to show more than a fractional decline, easing a point to 62. On small deals, Colgate was down 3 points and Great Lakes Dredge, Pitts-Simmon and Connell Dredge, Q. R. S. Music and Decker & Cohn eased a point each.

Armour preferred was up 1/2 and Commonwealth Edison, Evans "B" and Illinois Brick each gained a point.

Alexander Braun has bought the three-story residence at 1214 North La Salle street, lot 30163, from Charles F. Birtman, and may erect a 100 room hotel on the site.

The hotel, according to V. E. Pflieger & Co., the brokers who negotiated the purchase of the site, is to be a modern building at the southeast corner of 6th and Indiana avenues was sold by Irving J. Schreiber to Max Gans for a reported $75,000, subject to $25,000. E. H. Silverman, of Elmer Jordan & Co., was broker. Patrick J. Altman was attorney.

A. H. Harris and A. E. Levin sold the three-story apartment building at 1111 North La Salle street, a 100 room hotel, to the Citizens Trust and Savings bank, as trustee, taking title for J. J. Schiller.

A 400 acre dairy farm at Westview, Wis., was given as part payment. N. Sampson of George G. Newbury & Co., represented the seller. The other brokers were J. L. Sheahan & Co., and Schuler Tiedler.

The five-story apartment hotel building under construction at 628 Decher Avenue, and to be completed in five years, is being built by Lewis to Morris and Sarah Schmittler for ten years at a reported rental of $25,000. The leases will operate it as an apartment hotel. Blankenship, Freeman & Co., were brokers.

Rosenthal, Mayer & Lewis were brokers. The W. L. Douglas Shoe company has leased from the Foreman Trust and Savings bank, the store at 435 East 47th street, and E. G. Shinn & Co., operating a chain of meat markets, have rented a store in the same building at No. 447. Both leases are for five years.

Agents of the property, represented all parties.
